EUROPEAN CAPITALS PLEASED BY REPORT

By the Associated Press.
The report of the Young plan advisory committee meeting at Basel aroused comment in capitals throughout the world. Below are the "nutshell" reactions:
Berlin—Satisfactory, although it fell short of being a solution.
Paris—Not so bad as had been feared.
London—Better the outlook for the impending international conference on reparations.
Geneva—The experts did their work well, but only the governments can work out remedies when political questions dominate.
Vienna—At least another step in the right direction.
Washington—Despite the committee's findings, congress has made it impossible for the administration to take any further action on debts.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(P)—Senator Borah gave Europe some tart advice today with the statement that if it is not heeded the United States must "come out of Europe and stay out."

The chairman of the foreign relations committee said he saw no hope for European recovery unless reparations are wiped out altogether and armaments cut drastically. He indicated the latter might well be 30 or 40 per cent.

He did not explain what coming out of Europe and staying out entailed but he commented that unless the continent set its house in order, America should pursue the policies followed before the war and attend to its own affairs.

"It will cost us something to come out," he said, "but it will bankrupt us to stay in. Since 1915, in one way and another we have put close to 45 billion dollars in Europe. It has not ended the economic crisis in Europe and it has brought an economic crisis to the United States."

He made no reference to war debts, but the somewhat reproving tone of the Idaho senator was reflected as other congressional leaders indicated they were in no mood for further moratoriums.

This, however, did not lessen the conviction that the United States will not be paid in full but the temper of the expressions was that if our former allies did not pay, the country could default.

Representative Snell, the house republican leader, said the American people were in no mood for further revision. The democratic leader, Representative Rainey, added he believed congress would turn down another moratorium proposal.

Representative McFadden, of Pennsylvania, who has gone further in his criticism of the president than any man in recent years, warned against United States participation in any war debt conference.

Chairman Collier, of the powerful house ways and means committee, said he was in no mood to discuss revision at this time.

Impatience with the European situation has been expressed before by Borah. He said recently he did not believe there would be any real peace in Europe until the Versailles treaty was revised.

"For 12 years conferences have been held, readjustments made, but none has brought relief," he said today. "The downward movement economically has been almost constant."

"For 12 years we have been told that this plan, or that plan, assured recovery, all based upon some temporary expediency with reference to reparations."

He said there was a limit to the help which "may be extended to others when they pursue policies and hold."

Suspect Is Arrested In Child's Slaying
CINCINNATI, Ohio, Dec. 24.—(P)—Another suspect whom police said was unable to satisfactorily explain his actions was arrested today in connection with the kidnapping and slaying of 6-year-old Marian McLean. He is to be held for questioning.

The man, who said he was a grocer, was taken into custody when he was reported to have been seen following a woman. Police said he previously had been seen leading a child.

When questioned, Detective Chief Emmet D. Kirgan said, the man became nervous, but showed no emotion while viewing Marian's body at the morgue.

Democrats Map Tax Bill To Oppose Mellon Program

BY WILLIAM L. BEALE.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(P)—A democratic tax program, directly opposing Secretary Mellon's plan to swell the number of taxpayers by nearly two million persons, is outlining itself on Capitol Hill.
It was reaffirmed emphatically today by senate and house party leaders as an elaborate defense of the administration proposals was issued from the treasury, denying that smaller incomes would supply most of the $220,000,000 new revenue desired annually.
Chairman Collier, of the house ways and means committee, which originates all revenue laws, and Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, ranking democrat of the finance committee, minced no words on this phase of the treasury plans.
Harrison was equally firm and predicted a majority of both parties would unite against such a move.
A detailed party tax plan awaits further deliberations by the senate and house democratic policy committees. But a skeleton program on manually.

Strong To Run That Weak May Walk

Those husky Golden Bears from the University and the "sassy" Yellow Jackets of Georgia Tech will meet at 2 o'clock Saturday at Grant field in a windup and climax to Atlanta's football season.
This contest presents Atlantans with an opportunity to enjoy a stirring grid battle and at the same time strike a blow at human suffering. Half of Tech's share of the gate receipts will go to the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children.
Tickets are $1, $2, and $3. The weatherman promises clearing skies by then, while the football wise sports writers who have been watching the practice of the rejuvenated and rested Jackets declare that the fighting engineers are set to give the mighty coast team a real battle.
More details of the game will be found in the first sports page.

Yule Trade Compares Well With Record of Last Year

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(P)—Santa Claus' pack is almost as heavily laden this year as last, the weekly mercantile reviews indicated today.
Bradstreet's said that the dollar volume of Christmas trade this year was substantially under that of last year, but the actual tonnage of merchandise sold only a little less, in the aggregate. Of 255 leading cities, more than half reported a tonnage equal to or in excess of last year.
"In fact, it can be said that the public response to Christmas buying was more active than anticipated," this review said.
Dun's weekly review reported that the Christmas trade wound up with a fair volume, with sales running heavy right up to the close of the shopping period.
"Calls for last-minute holiday merchandise," said Dun's, "kept wholesale shipping departments quite busy yet purchases for January sales brought the chief activity to wholesale markets. Aside from industries affected by demand for Christmas goods, the quietness of previous weeks at industrial centers has been intensified by the nearness of the year end and preparations for inventories."

FAIR, BALMY TODAY, SAYS FORECASTER

Despite the fact that rain came down in plentiful quantities both during the morning and afternoon Thursday, drenching and dampening somewhat the ardor of Christmas Eve shoppers, today will be fair for Atlanta and Christmas Day will be a balmy, clear affair for all.
This forecast was made Thursday by C. F. von Herrmann, meteorologist, who stated in addition that the temperature, while spring-like, will not be so very much different from that of Thursday, when the mercury ranged about between 59 and 67 degrees. Today's reading as far as the thermometer is concerned will be between 55 and 65 degrees, he said.
"One thing is an assured fact," he declared, "we won't have any snow locally at least." A total of .35 of an inch of rain fell Thursday.

Christmas dawned in Atlanta today with the comforting assurance that no man, woman or child residing in this city need go without cheer, warmth and food on the anniversary of the birth of Christianity.

No other city, perhaps, can boast such preparations as Atlanta has made, and it is officially stated that there will be no excuse for any person to spend the day in frugal squalor, or to fail to partake of a sumptuous dinner of special holiday food.

At the City Relief Center, located in the annex of the city auditorium, arrangements have been completed not only to give a turkey dinner to every Atlantian who visits the center, but to every child who, through force of circumstances over which they have no control, has been forgotten by Santa Claus, toys, fruits, nuts, candies and cakes will be given in an atmosphere of gaiety and merriness.

Lawson Turner, secretary, and J. R. Nix, superintendent of the City Relief Center, on Christmas Eve were jubilant over the prospects for taking care of all unfortunate persons in the city today.

"Tell them all to come to the City Relief Center," Mr. Turner urged. "Assure them that there is plenty of food and good things, and ample good cheer to make them forget their troubles."

"I have never seen such Christmas spirit before in all my life," said Mr. Nix. "The people of Atlanta ought

FRANK G. CORKER DIES SUDDENLY

Well-Known Banker and Real Estate Man Found Dead in Bed.

Frank G. Corker, 63, for many years identified prominently in banking circles of middle Georgia and for the last 11 years a well-known figure in Atlanta real estate transactions, died suddenly late Wednesday night or early Thursday morning at his residence, 1347 Fairview road, N. E. Mr. Corker was found dead in bed Thursday morning.

Funeral services will be held at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, and interment will be in West View cemetery. Ministers officiating at the rites will be announced later.

A native of Waynesboro, Ga., Mr. Corker was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen A. Corker, and was a graduate of both the University of Georgia and Emory University law school, in which latter institution he was a classmate of Mayor James L. Key. Mr. Corker was an old member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and took a leading part in the founding of the Georgia Tech chapter of that organization.

At the age of 21, Mr. Corker entered the private practice of law at Dublin, but soon forsook the legal career for the financial field, organizing the First National Bank of Dublin, of which he was president until several years ago, notwithstanding his removal to Atlanta in 1919. His retirement as president of the Dublin bank came upon acquisition of that institution by the Citizens & Southern National bank.

At the end of his financial activities, Mr. Corker entered into the real estate field in Atlanta and was a member to several major realty transactions during the last few years. He maintained offices in the Hurt building, where he kept regular hours daily. Wednesday afternoon he returned home, remarking that he felt indisposed. He went to his room and retired.

Mr. Corker was a member of the Capital City and Druid Hills Golf Clubs of Piedmont Lodge No. 447, F. & M. A., and of the Yearab temple of the Shrine. Although he held membership in the Methodist church of Dublin, he was a regular attendant at services of the Druid Hills Baptist church.

In 1930 Mr. Corker married Alice L. Cole, of Savannah, who survives him. Other survivors are three daughters, Mrs. Ralph Bullard, Miss Lila Corker and Mrs. Frank Kempton, all of Atlanta; four sons, F. G. Corker, of Tampa, Fla.; F. B. Corker, of Birmingham, Ala.; W. B. Corker, of Portland, Ore.; and Moon Corker, of Atlanta; one brother, S. A. Corker, New York city, and a grandson, William G. Corker, of Portland, Ore.

LAVAL IS VICTOR IN DEPUTIES' VOTE

'Beer Bill' Hearings To Open Shortly After Yule Recess

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(P)—Hearings on bills to repeal the 18th amendment and legalize beer will be opened shortly after the Christmas recess by two senate committees.

A sub-committee of the manufacturing committee was appointed today to hold hearings on a bill introduced by Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, to legalize 4 per cent beer. Chairman Norris, meanwhile, was selecting a subcommittee of the judiciary committee to hold hearings on resolutions offered by Bingham and others to repeal the 18th amendment.

Senator Metcalf, Rhode Island republican, who favors resubmitting the 18th amendment, was appointed by Chairman La Follette to head the subcommittee. Others appointed were Senators Cutting, republican, New Mexico, and Sheppard, author of the 18th amendment. Metcalf's office announced that hearings would open as soon after the holidays as arrangements could be made for witnesses. Bingham's bill proposes to change the alcoholic limitation of the Volstead act from one-half of 1 per cent to 4 per cent, which he says, is not intoxicating. Bulkley, democrat, of Ohio, has a bill pending to legislate 2.75 per cent beer.

Norris was working on two subcommittees, one to consider the repeal measures, and another to take up a resolution offered by Bingham to set up machinery for national referenda. Norris said he was having difficulty obtaining senators in favor of the dry laws who would serve on the subcommittee to consider repeal.

BURGLAR SLAYS GROCER IN HOME

Ben Christol Shot and Killed by Intruder; Funeral at Noon Today.

Funeral services for Ben Christol, 52, grocer, who was shot in his home at 139 1-2 Chestnut street early Thursday morning by a negro burglar, will be held at noon today from Sam Greenberg's chapel. Rabbi T. Geffen will officiate. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Christol was fatally wounded in the abdomen when he got out of bed on an alarm by his wife and shouted for help after breaking a window. Christol was awakened around 4 o'clock in the morning when his wife screamed on seeing a man standing at the foot of the bed.

Police said that the burglar obtained entrance to the home through a grocery store downstairs, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Christol.

Christol was a native of Russia. In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Miss Edna Christol; a son, Sam Christol; two brothers and three sisters.

HEART ATTACK FATAL

Mr. Bowman had been a resident of Atlanta for 25 years, and was a native of Jackson county. He was a member of the Methodist church and the Masonic lodge. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Avtry & Lowndes. Surviving Mr. Bowman are his wife; parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. NANCE STATEMENT FLAYS MAYOR KEY

Labor Asserts Executive
Has Failed To Fulfill Campaign Pledges.

Asserting that Mayor James L. Key, "instead of supporting the moral standards of a Christian community, has lent himself to the efforts of those who desire a wide-open town," through his support of Sunday movies for charity, a Steve Nance, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, Thursday issued a lengthy statement scoring the administration of Key and explaining why the federation is seeking his recall.

The federation at a meeting held Wednesday night voted to push the recall effort which has been under way by the Greater Atlanta Prohibition and Law Enforcement Club since last summer because Key criticized the law as unsuccessful.

Nance's statement pointed out that Key's platform contained three basic principles as follows:

1. That the city was receiving sufficient revenue to operate on a satisfactory basis, and that difficulties the government then was facing were brought about by so-called "crooks in council."

2. He gave positive assurance to firemen, policemen, teachers and other city employees that their salaries would be maintained and that their standards of living would not be reduced.

He emphasized his position as a moral leader in the community and pledged opposition to all efforts to make Atlanta a "wide-open town," which would entail lowering of the moral standard of the community.

Nance scored Key as apparently forgetting his campaign pledges "immediately after taking office," saying Key had supported various measures to reduce the standard of living, and even advocated a proposal that all employees work a month without compensation.

"Instead of supporting the moral standards of a Christian community," Mr. Key has lent himself to the efforts of those who desire a wide-open town, ardently supporting a movement for Sunday movies, which was put forward under the guise of charity as an entering wedge," the statement said. "In other cities of America the charity performances for unemployment relief, sponsored by President Hoover's committee, were given on week days. This action on the part of the mayor was followed by suggestions in the newspapers that theaters work out a proposition whereby a percentage of Sunday receipts would go to charity under an arrangement for permanent Sunday shows in Atlanta."

Continuing, the statement flayed Key for failing to offer a single constructive measure looking toward solution of the city's financial problem. It hit alleged failure of the mayor to carry his economic policies to his own office, citing instances in which it is held he failed to do so.

It pointed to the fact that the mayor failed to approve an extra ap-

THREATENING FLOODS CREEPING HIGHER

200 Convicts Rush to Tallahatchie River To Strengthen Levees.

CLARKSDALE, Miss., Dec. 24.—(P)—With rumors of loss of life persisting, Christmas Eve flood waters today crept into sandbagged stores and homes of Tallahatchie river valley towns after last night's deluge. In addition to 10 days of overflow in the Mississippi delta and provoked hurried calls for the strengthening of protection levees in an increasingly critical situation.

Two hundred convicts from the Mississippi prison farm at Parchman were rushed to Tallahatchie county to save crumbling levees on Cassiday bayou at Glendora and Sumner, where the bayou had returned to a new rampage, inundating the towns.

A new exodus of refugees began from the outlying expanses of water-covered country into the concentration camps at Marks, Crowder and other towns where they joined hundreds now under care of the Red Cross and plantation managers.

To protect their private levees from the threat of dynamiting by over-anxious land owners, they want to relieve the strain against other dykes, planters of the afflicted section today maintained a concerted armed levee patrol. Several attempts at dynamiting were reported.

Few Christmas trees blazed to cheer the refugees, mostly plantation negroes huddled together in the camps safe from the backwash of the furious Tallahatchie. Relief workers said it was taxing the resources of the Red Cross and the land plantations to provide the home-ridden bare necessities of existence with the situation hourly growing more menacing.

If there was loss of life, relief workers said, it consisted of negroes caught in the backwash of the Tallahatchie up stream and hurled to a death by drowning. Fred Handers, a refugee from up the river, brought in a report that some negroes had drowned, but Mrs. Mollie Hodges Nicholson, national Red Cross worker in charge of relief in the stricken district, was unable to verify the reports on her trip into the Tallahatchie fastness.

DEMOCRATS MAP PROGRAM ON TAXES

for policies has crystallized: It opposes lowering present income tax exemptions.

It puts the major burden of supplying more federal revenue on large incomes and inheritances, assisted by a gift tax.

It contemplates a more moderate increase than the $200,000,000 the treasury asked. Short-term loans would fill out the remaining deficit, already over $1,300,000,000 this fiscal year.

It opposes any retroactive taxes and favors a permanent law rather than the temporary 2-year increase asked by Mellon.

It proposes a general sales tax through a special levy on some non-essentials and amusements is receiving consideration.

Income under $5,000, it was said, would supply but $27,000,000, while those over $100,000 would contribute $182,000,000. Of the latter sum, $155,000,000 would be supplied by incomes of $50,000 and over.

Large incomes were said to be unable to supply the needed additional revenue because of the business recession in 1928, and with $10,000 incomes numbered 16,000 and they numbered 6,200 and paid less than $24,000,000.

The treasury said further that taxes on $100,000 incomes would be jumped from 24 to 42 per cent, while incomes in excess of $100,000 would be taxed almost double present rates.

At the same time, the tax on the first $4,000 of income would go only from 1-1/2 to 2 per cent and on the second $4,000 from 3 to 4 per cent.

It contended miscellaneous taxes such as those recommended on checks, automobiles and telephone calls would not burden the taxpayers.

proposition to supplement labor scales in erection of a new administration building at Capitol field.

Failure to sell "many thousands of dollars' worth of bonds from the 1921 and 1926 issues and put men to work" also was attacked.

The federation seeks Key's recall on charges of "incompetence, disregard for the moral welfare of the community, repudiation of campaign promises and refusal to co-operate with city, county and state officials in any constructive program," which, it was alleged, "are forcing the municipality into virtual bankruptcy and a large portion of its citizens into practical pauperism."

Twas the night before Christmas, and all over the town, everybody was smiling; they just couldn't frown. Thousands of lighted living trees, scattered hither and yon throughout Atlanta, added a cheery touch to Christmas Eve in spite of the damp weather. Twinkling colored lights, reflecting in the wet pavements, informed everybody that Christmas is here.

Former Slaves Frolic in Joyful Spirits At Holmes Institute Big Yuletide Party

BY ROY ROBERT.

Tottering on canes but with their eyes full of glee, some 80 former slaves met Thursday to sing, dance, shout, receive gifts and at the end of a two-hour "Christmas frolic" depart saying, "Law, honey, white folks is jest like dey used to be."

It was the annual gathering of the Ex-Slave Association, founded by Rev. B. R. Holmes, which assembles each year on Christmas Eve to receive baskets of food, clothing and money donated by white and colored people, and gathered by younger negroes.

For the greater part, the negroes were well beyond the three-score and ten yet alert, but the holiday season stirred their imaginations and memories of "dem good old days when a plenty of side meat and a 'possum for Christmas dinner made mighty good eatin'." Despite their age they capered and danced, shouted hallelujahs—and wept.

They gathered in the auditorium of the Holmes Institute on Hilliard street, with Rev. J. A. Hadley directing the party. The Rev. Holmes and Rev. A. R. Cooper were principal speakers. Both recounted the lore of slave days and told the aged negroes that "white people now are just like they used to be—the best friend you ever had in the world."

During the more colorful descriptions of ancient Yule revels, the old darkies shouted many a hearty amen and two of them rushed down to the speaker on limbs stiffened with age but agile again at the recital of happy memories. Their eyes held tears, emotion "too much to stand airtin' out thar."

After the speaking it was time to sing those old songs which in antebellum days rang through the swamps and fields of Georgia. "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" roared from lusty throats, the old spiritual punctuated with yips and shouts. "Lawd, I'm happy," and three older negro women clasped each other and wept.

Through a rich repertory they sang on and on, and when the Rev. Hadley attempted to stop them, they wouldn't be "hushed down"—cause it "Christmas." Through "Little David Play On Your Harp" and "Dem Golden Slippers" they roared, swaying bodies in time to weird rhythm.

Having their pictures made, they found time to philosophize and say their "white folks was mighty good to us." Many a veteran of the hoe and but male wistfully talked of the good old days when Christmas meant barbecued pork, striped stick candy for the children—and on that day of days, a cup of steaming run punch or cognac for the "big niggers."

Later they were each given a huge bag of foodstuffs, sardines, syrup, corn meal, sugar, coffee—a host of all things, a "cut of succulent 'pork' to bile in a pot o' peas." Cash gifts were also distributed.

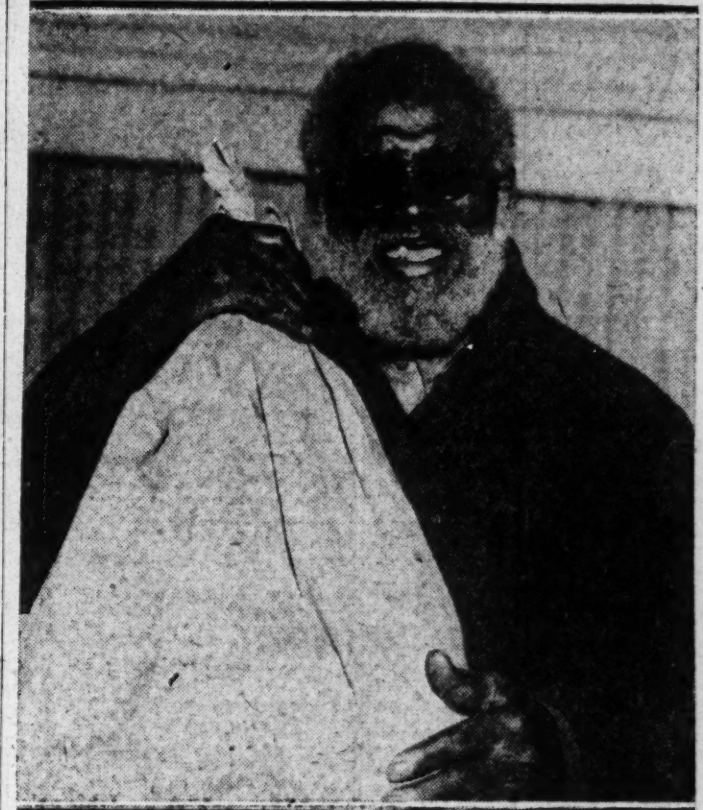

Time to go and time for handshaking and the old darkies slapped backs and pumped arms. They may get hungry and cold during this winter, may these old negroes who helped make Christmas and maybe a rather of side meat will be left for New Year's Day.

MRS. E. B. DENNINGTON DIES AT RESIDENCE

Mrs. Emma Burton Dennington, 58, of 333 Angier avenue, died suddenly Thursday night at her home. Mrs. Dennington was a native of Hart county. She moved to Atlanta 20 years ago, and was a charter member of the Druid Hills Baptist church.

In addition to her husband, T. W. Dennington, she is survived by three sons, T. Emmett Dennington, of The DeKalb News Era; Fred H. Dennington, and Stanley Dennington; a daughter, Miss Clara Dennington; three sisters, Mrs. J. A. Cook, of Atlanta; and Mrs. Sarah Walters and Mrs. Evie Maree, of Loxonia; a brother, E. C. Burton, of Calera, Ala.; and a grandson, Thomas Emmett Dennington.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon from the Druid Hills Baptist church. The Rev. Louis D. Newton, pastor, will officiate. Interment will be in DeCATUR cemetery, with A. S. Turner in charge.

It's "Christmas time in Gawja" again and Uncle Tom Holland, only 97 years old, smiles his one-tooth smile as he receives two bags of "good eatin'" Thursday at the Christmas party given former slaves by the Ex-Slave Association at the Holmes Institute on Hilliard street. At the top, the wife of B. R. Holmes gives bags filled with "sidemait, ca'w'n meal, sorghum syrup and other good vittels," to Amelia Payton, 77, and Cornelius Hutchinson, 83. More than 60 old darkies gathered to sing, dance, shout and cut capers and to receive the food, clothing and cash given by white and colored people. Staff photos by Bill Mason.

State Officials Observing Yule With Simple Home Celebrations

BY R. E. POWELL.

Christmas will be observed in a comparatively simple manner by state officials and most of the employees, despite the fact that the holidays began Thursday afternoon and continue until Monday morning.

Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. will eat dinner at the mansion on the Prado with his father, Chief Justice Richard B. Russell Sr., Mrs. Russell and "probably a dozen other members of the family."

Secretary of State John B. Wilson is going to spend most of the day at Logansville, the old home town to which he affectionately refers by branding Atlanta as one of its suburbs.

Attorney-General George M. Napier, State Treasurer W. J. Speer, Comptroller General William B. Harrison, Health Commissioner T. F. Abernethy, Captain J. W. Barnett, chairman of the highway board, and the judges of the supreme court and court of appeals will spend the day at their homes in and near Atlanta.

Members of the prison commission will be at their respective homes for the celebration. Judge E. L. Rainey, chairman, will go to Dawson, Vivian Stanley to Dublin and Judge G. A. Johns to Winder.

Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, will spend the holidays at his home in McRae, Ga.

M. L. Dugan, state superintendent of game and fish, will go to Brunswick and spend the week-end with his son, Colonel J. R. Dugan.

Peter S. Twitty, state commissioner of game and fish, will spend the holidays at Dublin.

Matt C. Bennett, chief examiner of the securities commission, will remain in Atlanta.

Hal M. Stanley, industrial commissioner, will also spend the holidays here.

Logan Bleckley, clerk of the supreme court, will remain in Atlanta due, he said, largely to the congestion in the high courts.

James A. Ferry, chairman of the public service commission, will be in Atlanta; Commissioner McDonald in Augusta; Commissioner Woodruff here; Commissioner Knight at Rays Mill, in Berrien county, and Commissioner Parker at Douglas.

Adjutant General Charles H. Cox will divide his time between his hotel home in town and his farm on the Stone Mountain road.

Judge J. J. Hunt, commissioner of pensions, will go to Griffin for the holidays.

State Auditor Tom Wisdom will go to his home at Chley.

Paul H. Doyal, chairman of the state tax commission, will celebrate in Rome, and R. E. Matheson, another member, will go to Hartwell.

JAPANESE LAUNCH FRESH OFFENSIVE

Drive Against "Bandits"
May Be Long-Expected
Chinchow Advance.

By the Associated Press.
Where the Liao river winds across the frozen plains of Manchuria there was no Christmas Eve goodwill and peace last night.

Columns of Japanese troops pressed forward under orders to "sweep 100,000 Chinese bandits" from the area west of the Liao.

At one point Chinese artillery churned up the ice that would have served as a convenient bridge for the attackers.

It was not yet apparent whether the long-heralded drive on Chinchow was under way, for the operations along the Liao were kept as a military secret by the Japanese bands.

While the column of soldiers marched forward in the cold, the negotiations of the diplomats continued.

In response to "expressions of apprehension" from the United States, France and Great Britain, Japan will declare in formal notes to the three governments tomorrow that there is little difference between Chinese bandits and regular troops in the Chinchow area of Manchuria.

A memorandum indicating renewed concern about the developments at Chinchow was presented to Premier Inukai by American Ambassador Forbes yesterday.

In the memorandum, Secretary of State Stimson mentioned treaties in general, but did not specify the nine-point pact, which tonight testifies Japan has violated by aggression.

Nationalist leaders in Nanking sent a telegram to former President Chiang Kai-shek, who gave up politics and went back to his farm the other day, asking him to assist in the formation of a new government.

HATRED HANGS OVER
SINO-JAPANESE LINES
BY CLENN BARR.
MUKDEN, Manchuria, Dec. 24.—(P)—There was neither peace nor goodwill in this Christmas Eve on the Liao river.

At least two points, Japanese troops were bitterly trying to force a passage to the west side of the river, that they might destroy the Chinese bands they call guerrillas or bandits. A veil of official silence covered the movements of the Japanese columns believed to be operating in that area.

The bitterness of the south Manchurian winter matched the bitterness in the hearts of the two hostile armies.

The Japanese already have forced passage across the snow-covered Liao, at least one battalion having advanced along the railway northwest of Yingkou.

It is bitter weather for fighting. The stocky little Japanese warriors, equipped with heavy olive-drab uniforms, supplemented by sleeveless coats and heavy boots, their heads protected by goatskin hoods, the fur of which frames their ruddy brown faces.

Including the Chinchow regulars, there are 100,000 Chinese in the area, according to Japanese estimates. The Japanese forces advancing across the plains do not exceed 3,000 or 4,000.

Whether this operation will turn out to be the long-expected drive on Chinchow, or a diversion to be established. The Japanese command asserted that the movement was only for the purpose of "bandit suppression" and that if the Chinchow regulars refrained from interfering, a frontal clash between the two armies could be avoided.

Chinese artillery broke up the ice on the Liao near Nientung-tsin today to prevent movement of Japanese reinforcements.

JAPAN TO SEND REPLY TO NATIONS' PROTESTS
BY JAMES T. ROWE.
TOKYO, Dec. 24.—(P)—There is little difference between bandits and regular Chinese troops in the Chinchow area of Manchuria, the Japanese government will say Saturday in notes replying to "expressions of apprehension" received from the United States, Great Britain and France.

American Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes spent 40 minutes today with Premier Inukai, presenting him with a memorandum from Secretary of State Stimson. The premier was informed that Washington was showing renewed concern regarding Japanese troop movements in the Chinchow area.

It was understood that Secretary Stimson's memorandum referred to treaties in general, but did not specify the nine-point peace pact, to which the United States, China and Japan are signatories.

The French and British communications, similar in content to the secretary's memorandum, were described by the foreign office as "expressions of apprehension" rather than warnings.

The premier informed Mr. Forbes that it was difficult to distinguish between bandits and Chinese regular troops, and for that reason the Chinese should withdraw south of the Great Wall to avoid a clash.

NATIONALISTS SEEKING CHIANG'S EARLY RETURN
NANKING, China, Dec. 24.—(P)—Chiang Kai-shek, who left Nanking for his hinterland farm a few days ago, saying he was through with politics, was asked today to come back and participate in negotiations about the formation of a new government.

A Kuomintang spokesman said party leaders were contemplating fundamental changes in the nation's foreign policy, particularly in regard to Manchuria.

Twinkling Lights on Living Trees Spread Yuletide Joy Over Yards of City's Homes

Geola and Shuina groups of Camp Fire Girls posed before a huge lighted Christmas tree Thursday afternoon when they attended the Fox theater. The two groups won a theater party by reaching a tie in a contest to obtain names of living tree lighters. The groups are led by Myrtle Mattison, guardian of the Geola group, and Miss Ethel Purcell, guardian of Shuina. Staff photo by Bill Magon.

BY BEN COOPER.
Twas the night before Christmas, and all over the town, everybody was smiling; they just couldn't frown. Thousands of lighted living trees, scattered hither and yon throughout Atlanta, added a cheery touch to Christmas Eve in spite of the damp weather. Twinkling colored lights, reflecting in the wet pavements, informed everybody that Christmas is here.

Girls, sponsors of the annual lighted living trees movement, Atlantans were interested in lighting outdoor Christmas trees more than ever before. The campaign was conducted by the organization through The Constitution, co-sponsor.

Camp Fire Girl groups were incited to warm rivalry in obtaining names of tree lighters, a Christmas Eve party at the Fox theater being the stake. Two groups tied for the prize, and both were entertained by Manager

Carter Barron, of the Fox. The winners were the Geola group, of Decatur, and the Shuina group.

Among those who have lighted living trees this season are: Mrs. J. W. Queen, 541 Marshall street, Decatur; Mrs. C. M. Boyer, 3227 Ponce de Leon place, Decatur; Mrs. Maurice Queen, 335 Marshall street, Decatur; Mrs. W. A. Speer, 1611 Peachtree road, and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fitzlock, of Powder Springs road, Austell.

GEORGIA PROFESSORS RESIGN BY REQUEST

Two Faculty Members at
Medical College Asked
To Quit Posts.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 24.—(P)—Announcement of the resignation of two professors at the University of Georgia medical college here, at the request of the dean of the college and the executive committee, was published today.

Dean W. L. Moss, of the college, was quoted as saying the resignations of Dr. Ralph H. Chaney, head of the department of surgery, and Dr. E. W. Schwartz, professor of physiology and pharmacology, had been asked "for the best interest of the school."

He emphasized that the request for the resignations "casts no reflection upon their teaching." He did not give the reason for the request, but said that the phrase "for the best interest of the school" might be for any number of reasons.

The dean said the recommendations that they be asked to resign came after an agreement between himself and members of the executive committee. The professors were asked to turn in their resignations December 7. Dr. Wilbur F. Potter has been made acting head of the department of physiology and pharmacology, in the absence of Dr. Schwartz, who is out of the city for the Christmas holidays. No statement has been taken from either of the places permanently, Dean Moss said.

Dr. Chaney said he had had no intimation of a request for his resignation until approached December 7. He said he had made no definite plans for the future. Dr. H. W. Shaw, acting chairman of the board of directors, said the resignations were not accepted unanimously. Protests against the resignation of Dr. Chaney were adopted by members of the three upper classes and also by graduate students at the university hospital, the Augusta Chronicle said it had learned. Dr. Chaney had been with the school for ten years.

GEORGIAN GETS CHECK FROM U. S. FOR XMAS

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Dec. 24.—James R. Kimbrel, operator at the local picture theater, received as a Christmas present a handsome check from Uncle Sam, being compensation due him as the only heir of the late Kiri Kimbrel, who died at Camp Gordon, just before his unit sailed for France, in 1917.

Kimbrel, left an orphan by his soldier father's death, did not know he was eligible to receive compensation as an orphan of a deceased soldier.

However, friends interested themselves in his behalf, with the result his claim went through, and he has been paid in a lump sum the total amount he would have received in installments, from the time of his father's death until he reached the age of 21.

Thousands on Streets of Macon Join in Singing Christmas Carols

MACON, Ga., Dec. 24.—(P)—After raining most of the day, clouds moved away late this afternoon and made possible the annual singing of Christmas carols here. Thousands of singers took part in the event, which was staged on Cherry street, Macon's principal business thoroughfare.

Thirty Macon churches took part in the singing. Parts of city blocks were assigned to each group, the name of the church represented by the carolers, being displayed on a printed board suspended from electric wires from which also hung thousands of vari-colored electric lights.

The singing began at 7:30 tonight and continued in the competitive groups for a half hour, at which time the public joined in mass singing. The Saturday Morning Music Club sponsored the event.

Before and after the caroling on the streets many groups of singers visited hospitals and homes of the sick, where they sang Christmas carols.

St. Joseph's Catholic church was crowded long before midnight for the annual Christmas mass and elaborate musical program, always attended by members of the church and their Protestant friends.

There also were large crowds at special services at the Episcopal churches of the city.

FARMER KILLS SELF BY ACCIDENTAL SHOT

STATESBORO, Ga., Dec. 24.—(P)—Oscar Deal, 40, prosperous farmer, was killed last night at his home near Arcola, 12 miles east of Statesboro, when his shotgun was accidentally discharged.

Deal had gone to the highway half a mile from his home, to the scene of an automobile accident. Members of the family were awakened as he returned and heard him say something about noises in the chicken yard.

He took his shotgun and went to investigate. The gun went off as he stumbled and fell over some farm implements. Members of the family heard him cry out and found him dead. They said it was his habit to carry the gun when investigating noises about the premises. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

NEGRO PHYSICIAN HELD TO SERVE OLD TERM

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Dec. 24.—(P)—Lucia Mitchell, wife of Dr. M. C. Mitchell, negro, came to the state prison tonight with a parole grant. Her husband, Dr. Mitchell, was held on request of the sheriff of Macon county, Sheriff Jolley, of Macon county, informed Superintendent B. H. Dunaway, of the prison farm, that he would come for the negro physician Christmas morning.

Dr. Mitchell was convicted of forgery in Macon county and sentenced to serve one year or pay a fine of $1,000. Dr. Mitchell was given a parole on the life term sentence resulting from conviction for killing a negro boy, Sam Mitchell, his nephew, in Macon, Ga., nine years ago.

Solicitor Hollis Fort, of Americus, said he would designate the forgery conviction. Solicitor Charles H. Garrett, of the Macon circuit, told prison officials that Dr. Mitchell was convicted of forgery of insurance papers on the life of his nephew.

SHERIFF OF LANIER WAS ESCORT TO GAY

VALDOSTA, Ga., Dec. 24.—J. I. Spivey, of this city, and sheriff of Lowndes county, requests the correction of a recent story regarding the delivery of M. A. Gay to the state prison farm.

The story stated that Gay was delivered to the farm by the Lowndes county officers, when as a matter of fact he was carried to Milledgeville by Sheriff Spence, of Lanier county. Gay, who was condemned to die, died the electric chair on yesterday, and who received a stay of 30 days from Governor Russell, committed the alleged murder in Lanier county and since conviction has been kept in the jail in this city. Lowndes county officers had nothing whatever to do with escorting and delivering the prisoner to the state farm and Sheriff Spivey desires that this be made known.

TWO BANDITS, ONE SHOT,
CAPTURED AFTER RAID

ALLEDALE, Ill., Dec. 24.—(P)—Two of three men who robbed the First National Bank of Alledale at noon today were captured a few minutes later, one of them seriously wounded, and the loot of approximately $10,000 was recovered when the car in which the bandits fled overturned two and a half miles west of here.

Harold Hawkins, 18, who said he lived in Belmont, Ill., and who was shot in the back as he drove a car from the bank, was captured when the automobile overturned in taking a curve too fast. Hawkins was pinned in the wreckage and with him was the money. His two companions jumped from the car, and ran, but Leo Pierson, 19, of McDonough, was captured a short distance away after members of a posse fired several shots at him.

The third robber, said by Hawkins and Pierson to be Roy French, 17, of Mount Carmel, escaped. An extended hunt is being made for him.

Legionnaires Send Season Greetings To Gov. Russell

GRIFFIN, Ga., Dec. 24.—(P)—Quimby Melton, state commander of the American Legion, today wired Governor Russell the following Christmas message:

"Georgia Legionnaires wish their governor the merriest Christmas possible and pledge him their support in every move to bring old Georgia back into the sunlight of prosperity."

At the same time the state commander issued the following Christmas message to all citizens of Georgia, especially to World War veterans:

"When we consider the general conditions throughout the world with those existing in Georgia we find plenty for which to be thankful this Christmas. May every citizen of Georgia have the merriest Christmas they have ever had. May the spirit of love, charity and thankfulness blot out the troubles we all worry about and make Christmas a joyous one. The American Legion, more than 10,000 strong in Georgia, stands ready to support every program for the advancement of our state and people. Backed up by our great ally, our auxiliary, we form a force that knows the value of team play and that has proven before its devotion to our state and our nation."

U. S. ARMY COSTS LOW, SAYS GENERAL TRAVIS

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 24.—(P)—General Robert J. Travis, president of the National Guard Association of the United States, in a statement today challenged the assertion he said he had heard from some quarters that this country spends an unusually large sum in support of its army and navy.

"Wide circulation has been given recently by the press and by speakers over the radio to the statement that 87 cents of every dollar raised by public taxation is expended for national defense by the army and navy. What data formed the basis for this statement I do not know, for it is clearly inconsistent with facts as disclosed by official records," he said.

General Travis said the estimate "probably includes funds appropriated for payment upon the public debt and appropriations such as those for rivers and harbors, which are expended under supervision of the army, but have to do with the development of commerce." The figures may be added, include money expended for the maintenance of the public debt, the American pension system is "more liberal and unlike that of other nations."

The digest of appropriations does not bear out the claim that 87 cents goes for national defense but "to the contrary, the figures show that the number of cents out of the total budget assigned to national defense is not one-fifth of the amount claimed by those men who have made this statement and that instead of increasing in percentage, the relative percentage of expenditures is being reduced," his statement said.

GLENNVILLE, Ga., Dec. 24.—(P)—Glennville's two banks, the Peoples bank and the Glennville bank, consolidated this afternoon under the name of the Glennville bank.

Both banks were strong institutions and the reason of the consolidation was not due to the depression or bad business. It was taken as a sound business move. Officers of the new bank are: W. F. Durence, chairman of the board; C. W. Kicklighter, president; J. C. Beasley and S. H. Howard, vice presidents; J. A. Bacon, cashier; Julia Bacon, assistant cashier; Gladys Waters, bookkeeper.

THEO. ELLIS, SUPERINTENDENT OF streets, supervised the wholesale "checking out" of prisoners, and all were enjoying their new found freedom by noon. It is an annual custom to release all stockade inmates considered worthy at Christmas time.

NEWSPAPER PROTESTS COLUMBUS SALARY CUT

Enquirer-Sun Says Action
Shows "No Consideration for Christmas."

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 24.—(P)—A resolution providing for a 10 per cent reduction in salaries of all employees of the city of Columbus, except common laborers, has been adopted by the city commissioners.

The salary reductions, designed to bring about a reduction of operating costs of the city government, were made effective January 1.

The Enquirer-Sun says the salary reduction includes all employees, policemen, firemen, school teachers, office workers and officials, except common laborers.

The newspaper commented editorially that announcement of the commissioners' action at this time was "disregarding the depressing effect on local business at the height of the Christmas shopping period, and with little or no consideration for the Christmas spirit of those affected."

The editorial added that it was "hard to understand" why the announcement was not withheld until after Christmas Day, and said "many citizens feel that the deficit should have been made up in some other direction so that these faithful public servants, already underpaid, could have been left with their present incomes."

To the Enquirer-Sun, no judgment was used in the matter."

Timber Fire Loss Lower for Year, Says Lufburrow

WAYCROSS, Ga., Dec. 24.—(P)—Despite the wide publicity given forest fires and the spectacular nature of these fires, far less highland and commercial timber lands were burned this year than last year.

This is the conclusion of B. M. Lufburrow, Georgia state forester, who is in Waycross taking part in a special investigation of firebreak machinery.

Mr. Lufburrow went on to say that the larger fires occurred in swamps that were not being used commercially and in which a large amount of decayed vegetable matter had formed under water. This year, for the first time in many years, these swamps went dry. This decayed vegetable matter burned for 10 or 15 feet into the ground, creating dense smoke, and cutting the soil out from under trees that fell because of lack of under-support.

These dry swamp fires attracted wide notice. However, in the lands in the timber protective associations and in the lands in active commercial use few fires occurred.

SPAIN TO IMPOSE CURB ON IMPORTS

Quota or Contingent System Adopted To Restrict Numerous Products.

BY WILLIAM H. LANDER.
MADRID, Dec. 24.—(UP)—The Spanish government assumed a new role in the world tariff conflict Wednesday when it empowered various cabinet ministers to fix a definite quota for more than a dozen imports, including a wide range of products sent here from the United States.

The official decree explained that its objective "is to diminish our purchases in certain countries which purchase our products with excessive rigidity, and for the purpose of purchasing more from other countries in which we have more obligations."

RECEIVER FOR ESTATE ASKED BY MRS. KAISER

A bill in equity filed in Fulton superior court Thursday morning by Mrs. Ruth B. Kaiser, widow of Nat. Kaiser, who died in December, 1928, seeks to have the estate placed in the hands of a receiver on the grounds that she is not getting her just share of the estate under the terms of his will.

In the bill Mrs. Kaiser alleges that she was left one-fifth of the estate which was largely stock in the Nat. Kaiser Investment Company, that 596 shares were delivered to the First National bank as trustee and she was to draw interest on the shares. One-Time Atlantan Reaches City On Long Trip Seeking Real America

BY WILLIAM O. KEY JR.
Philadelphia. He wanted to view for himself and interpret the outlook of people of various sections. The editor seized upon the idea and at once persuaded Markey to undertake the assignment as a McClall writer, which he accepted.

On October 1, Markey set out from New York city in his automobile, and to date has covered a majority of the states in a tour of more than 18,000 miles; and has arrived in Atlanta to study the intelligentsia and the bourgeoisie, and their manners and customs. He wants to get the mental picture of Americans here of things in general—as he does in other cities—and put it with those other attitudes he has collected along the way.

The average person calling himself "American" would be greatly surprised at the difference in the opinions and interpretations of national or world conditions found in various American localities.

"American people," Markey said, "are vastly different from what one very easily might—and does—expect. I have found, for instance, that they are different from any other people in the world; and particularly so in two marked characteristics—a somewhat excessive amiability, which causes them to do almost anything for a good hearty laugh; and a most generous and hospitable nature. The aggressiveness of the American is simply amazing."

"Mencken and Sinclair Lewis and others would portray the average American as being somewhat oblivious of the art of living, and set them up as a hard-driving business class. As a matter of fact, however, I have found that the average American knows a great deal about how to live and isn't so 'hot' as a businessman. He has a great humor and a sound philosophic attitude, and to see his resilience in the worst of bad times, and to understand how marvelously he lives without losing one vestige of his humor is surprising."

But there isn't a chance in America for a revolution, he added. "There possibly may be widely separated food riots during this winter in the larger industrial centers, such as Chicago, Pittsburgh and Detroit, but there is no leader of a leader of revolutionary thought nor a revolutionary plan upon which a radical action could be based."

In a talk with Louis Bromfield, famous novelist, Markey said that Bromfield had termed Atlanta the "most beautiful city in the United States," and Markey, in a series of articles now being published in McClall's will class Atlanta and Salt Lake City as the two most charming cities. However, the writer could not say very much for automobile drivers of this city.

"They need," he said, "to be taught how to operate an automobile, for one thing, and how to turn corners for another."

Upon the completion of his tour, Markey will go to Florida with his wife and daughter, and convert the summation of his travels into a book, to be published next spring by Little, Brown and Company.

Several months ago—after a long period of personal curiosity as to just what sort of people we Americans are—Markey, during a chat with the editor of McClall's, mentioned casually that he would like to visit every state in the Union and see for himself the differences between, for instance, a resident of Seattle and a citizen of

FOWLER SERVICES THIS AFTERNOON
Joint funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Decatur First Baptist church for Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas Fowler, of 215 Mead road, who died Wednesday at the residence within four hours of each other. The Rev. A. J. Moncrief, the Rev. A. B. Couch, the Rev. C. H. Fritchard and the Rev. E. T. Booth will officiate, and interment will be in the Decatur cemetery.

Surviving the couple are three sons, Walter, G. A. and N. B. Fowler, of Decatur; seven daughters, Mrs. R. A. Kelpen, Mrs. Roy L. Wallace, of Decatur; Mrs. Charles A. Green and Mrs. Roy E. Burnett, of Atlanta; Mrs. R. E. Gooden, of Marietta, and Mrs. A. J. Delk, of Lake Worth, Fla.; 26 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

CHILD IS SAVED BY BRONCHOSCOPE
After three victories within a month, death was cheated of its fourth victim of lung obstruction Thursday when two-year-old Billy Oliver Crawford, of Greensboro, Ala., coughed up particles of pecan shells lodged in his bronchial tubes while playing beneath his Christmas trees at his parents' home Wednesday.

Specialists at Georgia Baptist, after Billy three times apparently had suffered suffocating spasms, probed into the affected area with a bronchoscope. A fit of coughing proved successful, they said, and the shell particles were dislodged. It will be necessary, however, for Santa Claus to visit the baby in the children's ward, physicians deeming it advisable for the child to remain under observation for several days.

LAST SERVICES TODAY FOR WILLIAM BAGWELL
Funeral services for William Overton Bagwell, 56, manager of the Southern Transfer Company, who died Wednesday afternoon at the residence, 905 Boulevard, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Peachtree chapel, 890 Peachtree street, with the Rev. J. S. Jenkins, officiating. Interment will be in Rock Springs cemetery.

Mr. Bagwell came here from Baxton county as a young man and entered the transfer business. He was connected with the old Morrow Transfer Company for 25 years, and had been with the Southern Transfer Company for the last 10 years. He was an active member of the Trinity Methodist church.

Surviving Mr. Bagwell are wife, three daughters, three sisters, and two grandchildren.

TREASURY DEFENDS INCOME TAX PLAN
WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The administration struck back today at criticisms that its tax increase plan mainly affects individuals with small means.

The treasury said persons with incomes of $5,000 and less would contribute only $27,000,000 of the proposed increase of $222,000,000 which would come from the added income tax. It was estimated persons with incomes of $10,000 and more would contribute $182,000,000 additional.

The administration believes it is out of the question to obtain from taxation of larger incomes anything approaching the total amount of additional revenue needed. The number of incomes of $100,000 and over fell from 16,000 in 1928 to 6,200 in 1930, and the tax on such incomes dropped from $700,000,000 to less than $240,000,000.

WOMAN IS ARRESTED IN KIDNAPING PROBE
KANSAS CITY, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Four of the nine persons sought for the kidnaping of Mrs. Nell Donnelly, millionaire garment manufacturer, were under arrest tonight.

Mrs. Ethel DeFew, said by police here to have been the "link" in the abduction plot through her services as a nurse for Paul Donnelly, husband of the garment executive, was arrested in Bloomsburg, Pa. Her husband, Martin DeFew, is sought as the alleged leader of the kidnapers.

Charges of kidnaping, a capital offense, were filed against the DeFews. After officers announced they contemplated extradition of the nurse, she said she would not oppose transfer to Kansas City.

Charles Mele, 39, a hotel clerk, arrested here today, was identified by Mrs. Donnelly as one of the two men who guarded her in a rural house in Wyandotte county, Kansas, while futile efforts were made to collect $75,000 ransom from her husband.

Paul Scheidt and Lucy Browning, Kansas farmers, have confessed to police they rented to the kidnapers the cottage in which Mrs. Donnelly was held for more than 30 hours.

Vic Bonura, restaurant man, to whom, police said, the kidnapers made a telephone call, is another sought in the case.

Receiver for Estate Asked by Mrs. Kaiser
A bill in equity filed in Fulton superior court Thursday morning by Mrs. Ruth B. Kaiser, widow of Nat. Kaiser, who died in December, 1928, seeks to have the estate placed in the hands of a receiver on the grounds that she is not getting her just share of the estate under the terms of his will.

In the bill Mrs. Kaiser alleges that she was left one-fifth of the estate which was largely stock in the Nat. Kaiser Investment Company, that 596 shares were delivered to the First National bank as trustee and she was to draw interest on the shares. She alleges that the ordinary's court without a right to do so, has split the shares up so that they are worthless and that executors of the estate have not treated her fairly. She asks that an administrator be appointed for further administration of the estate and that the division of the property be set aside.

The defendants named in the bill are: Herbert Kaiser and Robert W. Schwab, executors of the late Nat. Kaiser; and who are made such defendants in the capacity as such, and further Herbert Kaiser and Robert W. Schwab are made defendants in the individual capacity, the First National bank, created trustee under the will of Nat. The bill was filed by the law firms of Jones, Fuller, Russell and Clapp, and Arnold, Arnold and Gambrell.

GIBSON SELECTED AS ARMS DELEGATE

"Ambassador-at-Large" Named as Fourth Member of Delegation.

BY JAMES W. DOUTHAT.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Hugh S. Gibson, America's ambassador-at-large, was selected today as the fourth member of the delegation which will speak for the United States at the Geneva arms limitation conference.

The ambassador to Belgium, who has had wide experience in international affairs, was chosen by President Hoover to accompany Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to Great Britain; Senator Swanson, democrat, Virginia; and Mary Emma Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke College.

This completed the delegation with one possible exception. President Hoover is still sizing up the senate republican lineup for another member. He is looking over the members of the foreign relations committee but the available material is rather scant. Almost all of the members of this committee are involved in the pressing domestic problems confronting congress and prefer to remain here.

Senators Vandenberg, of Michigan, and Glenn, of Illinois, are the most likely possibilities for the Geneva delegation. However, Vandenberg, like some of his colleagues, has made it clear to friends that he considers his interests at home almost paramount.

Mr. Hoover is expected to confer shortly with Senator Vandenberg, of Indiana, the republican leader, on the question of sending a republican senator.

Meanwhile, gratification over the appointment of a woman representative was expressed in the United States abroad.

Word from Geneva said Miss Woolley's selection was regarded as an appropriate move likely to be imitated by other powers.

In a statement Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters, said President Hoover, in appointing Miss Woolley, "not only recognizes her distinguished leadership and wide experience but also the great interest of the women of the country in reducing armaments by international agreement as a means of guaranteeing world peace."

Ambassador Dawes, who will head the delegation, has been summoned from his London post, to confer with the president on arms reduction. He will reach Washington about January 10 and will return to Europe with the other delegates shortly before the Geneva conference begins on February 2.

Both Dawes and Gibson have had long experience in foreign affairs. The former vice president is best known for the plan for German reparations payments which bears his name. He has an intimate knowledge of European affairs.

Gibson represented the president at the meeting of technical experts which recently arranged details of the intergovernmental debt suspension. He has been in the diplomatic service since 1908.

Swanson is the ranking democrat on the senate foreign relations committee and has had long experience in dealing with this country's connection with affairs abroad.

The woman member will fulfill a lifelong ambition when she goes to Geneva. For years she has advocated substitution of international understanding for armed force.

PRESIDENT APPROVES

ARK. VET HOSPITAL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—President Hoover has approved a recommendation of the federal board of hospitalization that a new veterans' hospital be located in Arkansas in the vicinity of Fayetteville.

The size and cost of the hospital will be determined later by the board of hospitalization.

Lind's Example Turns Major, Sons to Aviation

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 24.—(AP)—When Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, on route from Miami to New York, was forced down by fog at Plaquemine beach, the town's mayor, L. O. Upson, was his official host.

Mayor Upson's four sons, 16 to 26 years of age were there too. They had been interested in flying before that time, but the colonel's unexpected visit put a new light on aviation for the family.

The result: Today, Mayor Upson and his sons, Lewis, Lawrence, John and Reginald, will take aviation medical examinations here preparatory to beginning flight lessons.

VICTIMS OF CRASHES REPORTED IMPROVED

While funeral arrangements were being completed Thursday night for Lena Johnson, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson, of 997 Donnelly avenue, who was almost instantly killed Wednesday afternoon by an automobile in front of her home, other victims of auto accidents continued to improve at Atlanta hospitals.

The body of J. W. Smith, about 40, a machinist, who died at Grady hospital from injuries received when he was knocked down by a car driven by Will Hiatt, of Marietta road, on Chattahoochee avenue Wednesday afternoon, was taken Thursday afternoon to Omaha, Neb., for final rites and interment.

The condition of Billy Montgomery, 13, who was seriously injured when the truck in which he was riding with his stepfather, W. G. Carnes, of 970 Fortness avenue, was demolished in an accident at Ormond and Connally streets early Thursday morning, was said to be improving Thursday night at Grady hospital, where he was taken.

According to police reports, Carnes and his stepson and M. T. Eason were driving up Ormond street when they were struck by a large sedan said to have been driven by Albert Johnson, a negro, of 580 Martin street. Johnson was trying to pass another car and Carnes, who suffered a fracture of the leg, was unable to avoid a collision. The truck was demolished.

Both Carnes and Billy Montgomery were taken to the hospital, but attaches said Carnes was not seriously injured and that the boy was in no danger unless complications set in. The negro was held at the police station, according to police records.

Lena Johnson, who had started across Donnelly avenue to greet her father, was hit by a car driven by Mrs. G. H. Hughes, of 887 Beecher street, prominent here in charity work and a former president of the Red-lacks of Georgia. Mrs. Hughes was charged with reckless driving by police but was released on her own recognizance. She was prostrated with grief over the accident. It was said, besides her parents, the child is survived by several small sisters and brothers. Arrangements for funeral services will be announced by J. Austin Dillon.

J. H. Bartenfield, of 488 Jones avenue, who was struck by a car driven by J. T. Austin, of 421 Myrtle street, when he walked from behind his parked car in front of his own home, still was in a critical condition at Crawford W. Long Memorial hospital Thursday night, attaches at the hospital reported, though he had shown some improvement.

FORMER MACON MAN CONVICTED OF MURDER

MADERA, Cal., Dec. 24.—(AP)—A superior court jury today convicted Albert W. Fuller, formerly of Macon, Ga., of the first degree murder of James W. Kipp, his former business associate.

The jury made no recommendation, which means the presiding judge must pronounce the death penalty when Fuller is sentenced.

Kipp's body was found recently in an abandoned mine shaft after he disappeared while on a trip with Fuller. The prosecution claimed Fuller had shot Kipp and thrown his body in the shaft, while Fuller testified Kipp was shot after a quarrel.

Bank Provides 20 Needy Families With Groceries, Clothing and Toys

Miss Ruth Reynolds (left) and Miss Nell Scott, employees of the Citizens and Southern bank, are shown arranging gifts of clothing and food for 20 needy families.

Following a Christmas custom begun 10 years ago, the Citizens and Southern National bank on Thursday distributed food, clothing and holiday gifts to 20 needy families of Atlanta representing 135 people.

The gifts which were distributed in packages included groceries, fruit, clothing, and toys. Each child's package contained shoes, two suits of underwear, sweaters, toys and fruit.

The box of groceries contained a supply to last a family of five for a week or 10 days, and contained flour, potatoes, rice, grits, meal, lard, peas, butter beans, sugar, syrup, bacon, bread, canned tomatoes, oranges, apples and bananas.

P. H. Winter, assistant cashier, is chairman of the committee. He was assisted by W. H. Fitzpatrick, assistant cashier; L. H. Parris, assistant trust officer, and Miss Mary Kingsberry, manager of the women's department.

Contract Rivals Shift Scene For Last Half of Bridge Tilt

BY LIEUTENANT ALFRED M. GRUENTHER, U. S. A.

Chief Referee, Culbertson-Lenz Bridge Tournament.

(Copyright, 1931, by N. A. M. A., Inc.) NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Ely Culbertson and Theodore Lightner Wednesday successfully fought off the "change of luck hoodoo" with which their opponents, Sidney Lenz and Oswald Jacoby, threatened when the field of battle in their 150-rubber bridge tournament was changed from the Chatham hotel, the Culbertsons' home, to the Waldorf-Astoria, where Mr. Lenz will serve as host.

The final check-up for the twelfth session of this bridge marathon revealed the fact that Mr. Culbertson and Mr. Lightner had increased their lead to 14,325 points.

Of the eight rubbers played, Mr. Culbertson and Mr. Lightner won six, for a net gain of 3,820 points.

The Culbertson side has now won 48 of the 80 rubbers completed. Play will be resumed Saturday afternoon.

Ely Culbertson made a very fine gesture when, at the beginning of the game, he expressed to Sidney Lenz the hope that Mr. Lenz and Mr. Jacoby would begin to hold better cards now that a change of scenery has taken place.

For a few minutes it looked as though this wish would be fulfilled, as Mr. Lenz and Mr. Jacoby won the first rubber by 685 points. However, Mr. Culbertson and Mr. Lightner won the second by 1,890 points and the third by 805 points and thereby convinced Mr. Lenz that the depression had not yet ended.

A prolonged argument developed during the first rubber involving a question of law. It was Mr. Culbertson's turn to deal, though Mr. Lenz actually dealt and passed. While the contracting was still in the early stage, Mr. Lenz asked to have the bidding reviewed.

Mr. Culbertson volunteered an answer to the question when he said "I dealt and passed." This, the court ruled, was incorrect. He had meant to deal and pass, but he had not actually done so.

The referees ruled that technically Mr. Culbertson had given unauthorized information to his partner during the contracting and that Mr. Lightner was therefore barred from further participation in the bidding.

The unfortunate result obtained by the Lenz side on this hand was responsible for the large loss suffered in the second rubber.

With both sides vulnerable, Mr. Culbertson, the dealer, opened with one diamond. When Mr. Lenz made a harmless overcall of one heart, Mr. Lightner doubled and all passed.

"Believe it or not," Mr. Lenz was defeated four tricks for a 1,400-point penalty when the king of spades was opened.

RUSSELL REJECTS PLEA OF SAUNDERS

Denied Clemency, Former Councilman Will Begin Gang Term Saturday.

Governor Russell Thursday declined to grant clemency to W. E. Saunders, former city councilman convicted of bribery. Saunders will begin a two-year chain gang sentence Saturday.

Attorneys and friends of Saunders recently appealed to the prison commission to recommend commutation of the sentence to a fine after the governor had granted a 60-day respite for the commission to hear the plea. The commission declined to interfere.

Saunders was convicted in the city hall graft cases. He was charged with having an interest in certain tax reductions and in the sale of motor trucks to the city. His sentence included a fine of $1,000 in addition to the gang term.

Every employee of the Fox theater, Thursday tendered to Thomas K. Glenn, chairman of the emergency relief committee, a check for $754.54 which represents the contribution of the local employees of Loew's, Inc., to unemployment relief in Atlanta.

Every employee of the Fox theater, Loew's Grand theater and the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film exchange gave a day's pay. Included were the day's earnings of the stars in the Loew theaters. This system of unemployment relief is employed by Loew's, Inc., throughout the country.

Mr. Glenn acknowledged the contribution in a letter to Nicholas Schenck, president of Loew's, Inc. In thanking Loew's for its contribution, Mr. Glenn suggested that if every organization would adopt the same plan, and if every employed person would give a day's earnings, ample funds would be provided to take care of the situation.

Green Wave Goes Through Secret Practice; Jackets and Bears Hold Workouts in Rain

With Georgia Tech and California football players breakfasting together this morning and with Tulane in Pasadena, Cal., preparing for the New Year's Day battle with Southern California, it would seem that Mr. Kipling was all wrong.

East is east and west is west, but the two most emphatically are going to meet.

Christmas Day finds two southern teams with the two big intersectional games left on the football card.

The visit of the Californians to Atlanta brought along one of the game's best-known coaches, "Navy Bill" Ingram.

Ingram is, of course, more concerned about his Saturday game with Tech than anything else, but he will talk about the coast game.

"If Tulane's tackles aren't good enough to stand up under 60 minutes' of very powerful assault, then I am afraid Tulane won't win," said Ingram.

"The Southern California style of attack is to pound away at those tackles until they give way. Then they send in Mohler with his speed and begin to work. I know little about Tulane, but I am sure, from their southern record, that they will make a game of it. But those tackles must play great ball or Southern California will beat them."

Quite a lot of people will be interested to learn that Ingram believes Howard Jones to have more good football men on one squad than any other coach ever assembled. This was the opinion of the Georgia followers when their late trip to the coast was completed.

Their opinion, however, might have been colored by the tremendous victory scored by the Trojans. Ingram, however, believes that Jones has one of the great teams in modern years and a squad with more good men on it than any other coach ever had.

ROSE BOWLS AND POETRY.

This football season has induced a poetic mood in the breasts of some of the young citizens of the state.

From Macon, Ga., comes one from Matt McFerrin, who is 12 years old. He is the first to come right out in front of one and all with a prediction on the Tulane-Southern California game. Not only that but he puts it in poetry. Calling it "A Prophecy of the Battle of Roses," he writes:

Out of the south, on New Year's Day,
Came a mighty Green Wave from far away.
To the sunny clime of the western slope,
Full of courage and full of hope.
United, unbroken, with wide renown,
Seeking for Tulane a national crown.
The mighty Trojans, who champions would be,
Fought a valiant fight for their U. S. C.
They tried end runs, plunges and all their tricks,
But at the finish—Tulane seven—the Trojans six.

The same mail brought another from Greensboro, Ga., where Catfish Smith, Georgia's all-American end, paid a visit to one of his admirers. The story is really a touching one.

Toombs Lewis, a 7-year-old youngster in Greensboro, selected Catfish Smith as his hero three years ago. In all his prayers he has never failed to mention Smith. Smith, who was visiting in Greensboro, heard of the boy and visited him.

"Gee," said the 7-year-old hero worshipper, "I'd rather have seen him than Santa Claus."

The poem is really magnificent. It reads:

Catfish Smith plays on the end,
He isn't fat, he isn't thin.
He is tall and he carries the ball.
They are all tall, but he makes them small.
He knocks down them all.

I know a boy eight feet tall,
Catfish knocked him flat, stomach and all.
He was for Tech and when Catfish hit him he was a speck.
He is Toombs DuBoise Lewis' friend,
And he is fine when he plays on the end.
There are some great lines in that poem. If Toombs Lewis is not careful he may grow up to become a sports writer.

SOME CHEERFUL NEWS.

Hal Bejin, of Wheeling, in the Middle Atlantic league, has been purchased by the Crackers. Usually announcement of a Cracker purchase is followed by some bad news about the ball player.

But the Sporting News carries a story wherein Hal Bejin is picked as the class of the Middle Atlantic and placed on an all-star team.

He is not, says the story, a great hitter, but he can field his position like nobody's business and saves many a game by his defensive work.

NOT A BAD YEAR.

The Constitution sports staff has enjoyed the past year. It has been a year rich in pleasant contacts and in friendships.

Despite the fact that W. L. Stribling and the two Georgia football teams failed to come through the year, found Georgia well up in the national sporting eye. Lake Russell brought the Mercer Bears along to a point where they joined with Tech and Georgia in creating favorable publicity for the state.

And the new year is likely to bring forth some new athletic stars. The world keeps going forward.

SEE TODAY'S GAME.

South Carolina State comes to Atlanta today to meet Clark University's football team in a charity game at Spiller field.

The game is really for the colored football championship of the southeast, as Coach Aiken's Clark team has gone along beating all opponents.

Proceeds of the game go to colored charities. Both teams are topnotchers and the game should be one of the best of the colored season. To those who want an afternoon of real entertainment the game at Spiller's is unreservedly recommended.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL.

The Constitution sports staff wishes for its readers a merry Christmas and a happy holiday period. The staff expects to enjoy Christmas even though there is no holiday for the morning newspapermen. May the presents be plentiful and the turkey tender.

TULANE HOLDS SECRET DRILL; JERRY BETTER

Greenies Impress Coast Fans With Evidence of Power.

By Paul Zimmerman, Associated Press Staff Writer.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Tulane's touchdown touchdowns, who must show cause for their claim to national football honors in the Rose Bowl tournament game here, New Year's Day with the University of Southern California, settled down to the more serious business of preparation today.

Coach Bernie Bierman sent the Green Wave rolling through a secret practice at Tournament park, and while only the Greenies and their board of strategy knew what went on, it was generally assumed that most of the afternoon was given over to defense against the Trojan power thrusts.

Tulane's injured list is still marked with three. Captain Jerry Dalrymple, All-America end, who suffered a kidney bruise in the Washington State game, appears to be getting along well and should be fit for the fight January 1.

John Read, sub center, sporting a pair of crutches, is not expected to get into action at all. Calvert (Foot) DeColigny, regular tackle, has been limping because of a slightly injured knee, but he is expected to be ready to start.

Although Coach Bierman had been a bit dubious about sightseeing tours before the game, he consented to a journey to Hollywood this morning, where the team had its glimpse of movies in the making and screen stars in their makeup.

Dalrymple and Don Zimmerman, the starting halfback, were the center of attention. Both have taken the business of being photographed as a necessary evil but apparently didn't mind facing the movie cameras turned on them on the production lots.

Tulane officials announced that probably 1,500 followers from New Orleans and vicinity would be here for the contest at the Rose Bowl. A block of 1,200 tickets was sent to New Orleans and 250 more have been requested. A number of special trains are expected after Christmas.

Tomorrow will be a day of rest from grid chores for the Greenies. A Christmas tree is planned with gifts for all, and a turkey dinner. At Los Angeles, the jinx of heavy colds still hovered over the Southern California Trojan gridsters.

Larry Stevens, regular right guard, did not appear in suit, while Orville Mohler, Tom Mallory and Ernie Smith, others of the first team, although recovering, were not in the line. The coach shows no concern over the set team through further defensive work against the vaunted Tulane aerial attack.

Coach Jones will be glad when Christmas is over. Half a dozen of his leading lights have been capitalizing on the holiday spirit by selling evergreen trees on a vacant lot in Beverly Hills. This gives the reason for the numerous cases of colds.

Mohler and Smith were the promoters of the idea, while half a dozen others have been employed by them, selling trees on a big scale mornings before practice and again at night, after the daily workout. As Mohler pointed out, "when business is slack, we sit around the tree, toasting our toes while our backs chill."

Conference Head Sees Good Future

RICHMONT, Va., Dec. 24.—(AP)—C. P. Miles, athletic director at V. P. I., and newly-elected president of the Southern conference, said today in a telegram from Mississippi that adoption of amendments designed to assure "questionable amateurism" in conference athletics is the beginning of a new era of intercollegiate sports in Dixie.

Higher standards of scholarship for eligibility in athletics, bans on proselytizing of service athletes and recruiting of star players in high and prep schools form "a step in the right direction toward new ideals and the beginning of a better understanding among all members," he said.

Mr. Miles promised as president to attempt to accomplish the things discussed and adopted at the recent session.

Thomasville Team Has Promising Stars

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Dec. 24.—The Y. M. C. A. basketball team of Thomasville will start this season with the most promising roster they have had for a number of years. Baister, who was last year voted as all-conference player immediately after the second district high school tournament was concluded, is on the team.

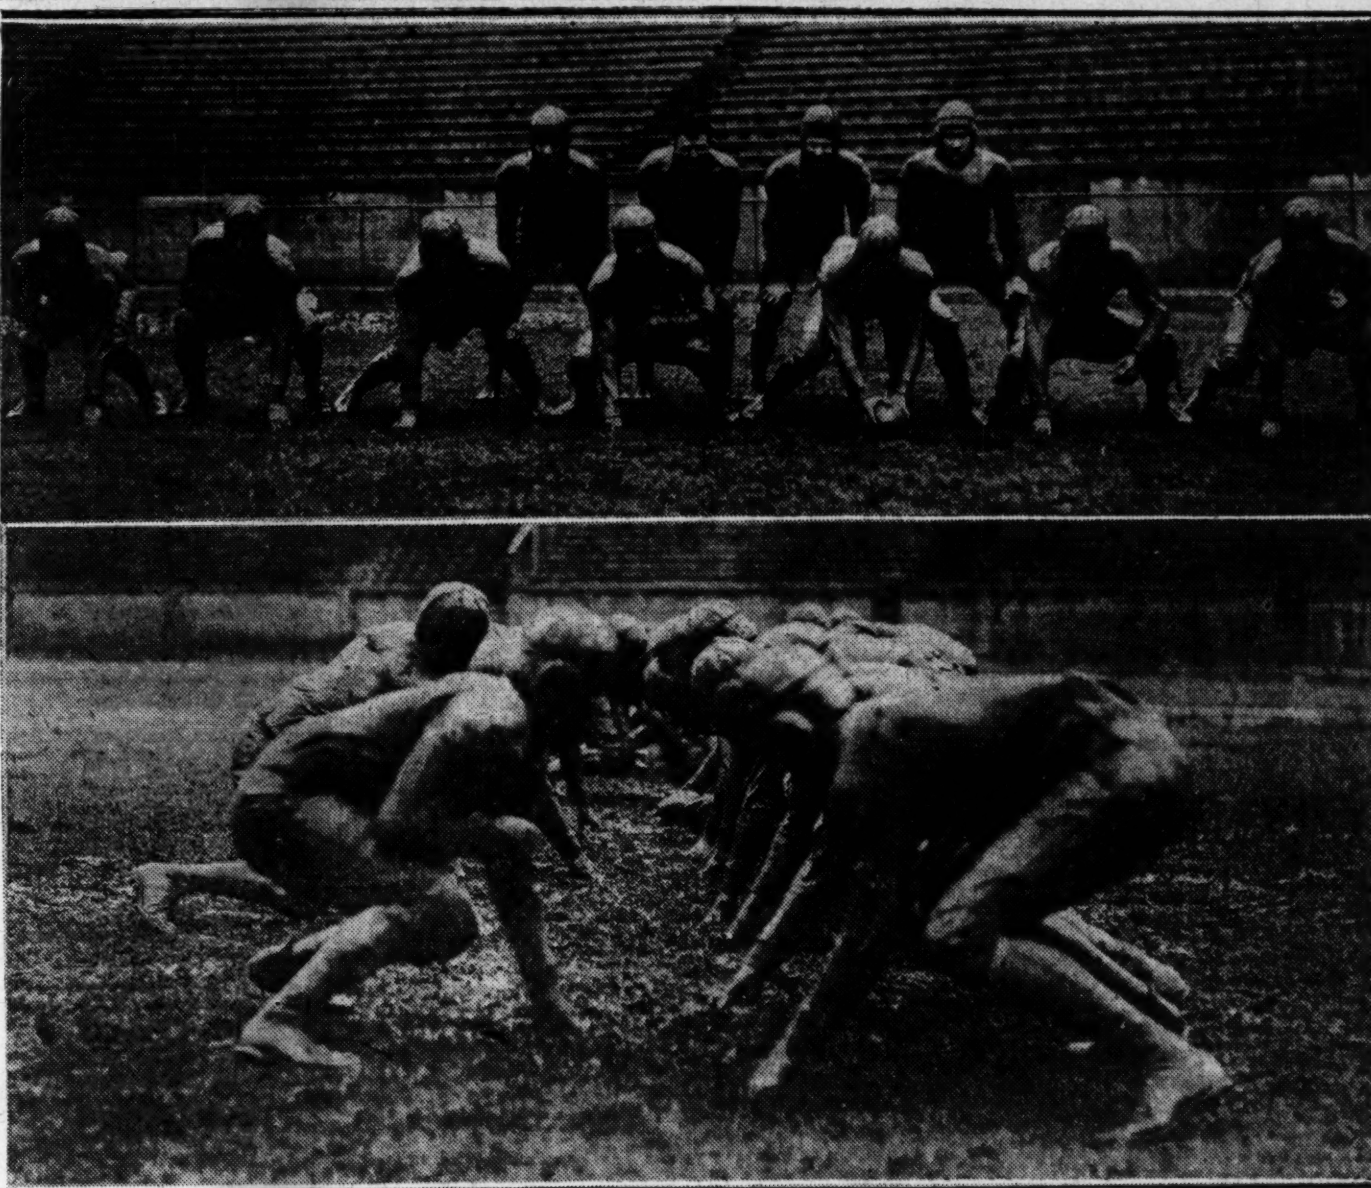

And "Red" Hilton, who starred as a center at Davidson College, N. C., is also a member of the outfit, along with Percy Petty, formerly a center on the local high school football team and now forward on the school basketball team.

Others are "Farmer" Burch and Jim Groover, who have been the mainstays of the team for several years, and several others who have starred either on home teams or teams in other towns and in colleges.

ATLANTAN WINS.

BOSTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Paul Adams, Atlanta, defeated Ted Germaine, South Boston, in straight falls in the main bout of a wrestling show last night. Adams took the first fall in 25:55 and the second in 15:45.

Golden Bears Work in Rain at Grant Field

"Navy Bill" Ingram and his California Bears took their first workout in Atlanta Thursday afternoon at Grant field in preparation for their game Saturday. The team was forced to work in a downpour of rain. Agua Caliente Track Plans To Re-open

AGUA CALIENTE, Lower Cal., Mex., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Officials of the Agua Caliente Jockey Club announced today arrangements had been completed for a refinancing and said there "isn't one chance in a thousand that the track will not open January 1."

Racing was suspended last night after 24 days of the third winter meeting. James Crofton, president of the Jockey Club, said heavy losses forced the suspension and added "it is our intention to reopen January 1."

Fistic Controversy Becomes Bore Some

Dempsey-Sharkey Verbal Battle Prompted by Desire To Keep Wolf From Door.

By Jimmy Jones.

Pardon me if I appear catty on this Christmas morning when we should all be full of good will toward men, various mild refreshments and a better than average tolerance of fire crackers, but all this telegraphic jawing that is alleged to be going on between Jack Sharkey and Jack Dempsey is becoming a trifle bore some.

About once a year we read in print where Mr. Sharkey has said something sassy about some other pugilist, who wags his cauliflowered fingers a couple of times and then says something back.

Now Jack Dempsey was lured into the Western Union dialogue and therein must lie a story. Either Jack Sharkey is trying to do something about the depression in his ring activity or Dempsey is trying to keep the old mazzuma flowing in from his one-night stands by taking pains to make a cunning answer.

If you are closely acquainted with the Dempsey troupe, you are aware, of course, of the fact that it is Mr. Leonard Sachs, a suave, smooth-shaved individual with an infectious smile, who thinks up all of Jack Dempsey's clever retorts.

No one has yet accused Herr Sharkey of being original enough to coin a different challenge every year or the same challenge differently, so we are led to suspect that the Western Union wire chief in Boston keeps a copy of the annual deft on file, ready to shoot it out to the eagerly panting world when the sailor man wags the release date.

It also will be remembered that Herr Sharkey once challenged Bill Stribling to a fight for charity, but charity didn't encourage it.

REMEMBER?

If you can get all those Christmas card addresses out of your mind and forget the nightmarish about those you forgot to send, no doubt you can recall a similar argument that has transpired by Messrs. Sharkey and Dempsey very recently. It was only last year and the year before that, to be exact.

Being at heart anti-Sharkey and very insantly anti-Johnny Buckley, we are forced to side with the dear public in favor of Dempsey. He is still very much our outstanding hero-man in the sports game and he is taking more chances on a pair of weak legs than Max Schmeling, the champion that Germany gave to us as part of the moratorium.

Dempsey is actually fighting better every night than Schmeling used as sparring partners in training for Stribling.

JACK FOUGHT.

And when he held the title, Dempsey did the most essential thing to the fight game, namely, fighting, and he did it in this country. Schmeling, who is capable of being a great champion, spends most of his time on ocean liners with nothing more vicious around him than a pet Dachshund or Joe Jacobs' cheroots.

Maxey seems to have taken a tip from his noted countrywoman, Marlene, and is carefully guarded. Continued on Second Sports Page.

OHIO PROVIDES NINE CAPTAINS

Cleveland Heads List With Three Leaders for Grid Teams.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The 1932 season will find nine Ohio boys at the head of as many of the country's most powerful scoring "elephants."

Lewis Hahnman, of Columbus, Ohio State halfback and recipient of the Associated Press All-Big Ten honors, captains the Buckeyes next year.

One of the most colorful candidates is Carl Hagaman, of Lorain, with the captaincy of Harvard's eleven.

Robert L. Smith, of Steubenville, heads Colgate's squad next year, while Robert Monnett, of Bucyrus, takes the captain's post at Michigan State.

From Bowling Green hails Ivan Williamson, elected to captain the University of Michigan eleven.

George Collins, of Youngstown, will lead Penn State's Nittany Lions on the field in 1932.

Yale's team will be captained by John S. Wilber, of Cleveland, who paved the way for the Elis' 3-to-0 victory over Harvard when he broke through and blocked Wood's punt on the 40-yard line.

The second of three Cleveland men elected to captaincies is James H. Reedy, Navy. Reedy, a guard, goes to the head of the Midway football ranks after three years in the line.

The third Cleveland and ninth Ohioian is Stephen C. Thayer, captain of the 1932 Williams College eleven.

Both teams worked with forward passes during the afternoon. Tech was stressing one particular pass. The Californians went through a wide assortment of them.

Braves Batteries Start Work Feb. 28

BOSTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The Boston Braves will start later and stay longer in St. Petersburg this year when they go south for spring training.

Batterymen will report in Florida February 28, club officials said. The rest of the squad will join them two days later and stay in camp until April 3.

The Braves, under present plans, will play exhibition games in Washington, Baltimore and Newark as they head north. They will play 18 games in Florida—nine with the New York Yankees, four with the Philadelphia Athletics, two with Brooklyn, two with the Cardinals and one with Cincinnati.

Iowa To Interview Six Leading Coaches

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Iowa's search for a new football coach to succeed Burt Ingwersen apparently has narrowed down to six candidates, although about 35 applications have been received.

Dr. E. H. Lauer, director of athletics, said he hoped to name Ingwersen's successor by February 1 and that he planned to interview six leading candidates in New York city.

ALEX SATISFIED WITH CONDITION OF TECH TEAM

"Navy Bill" Ingram Worries a Bit About Game Tomorrow.

By Ralph McGill.

California and Georgia Tech football players sloshed through mud and water in a heavy downpour of rain Thursday afternoon as they took the last hard workout before their game Saturday at Grant field.

There was no singing in the rain but quite a lot of perspiring and huge effort as Bill Ingram drove his Golden Bears through a hard drill which included some line scrimmage.

The boys were all mud-covered and rain-soaked within a few minutes, but they stuck to their task for the better part of an hour.

The Jackets trudged off through the rain to get football into the minds of a mile away, and took their drill. It included no scrimmage work and was simply a drive to attain better offensive form. The heavy condition of the field presented much work.

There was a touch of something or other about the work of the Jackets in the field they call the Rose Bowl field. It is a magnificent athletic field and it was built with funds received from the game at the Pasadena Rose Bowl on New Year's Day, 1929, when Tech defeated California for the football championship.

NOT FOOTBALL-MINDED. "Navy Bill" Ingram seemed determined to get football into the minds of his men. They arrived Thursday morning on a special train, having left Berkeley, Cal., last Sunday.

"The trip was a pleasant one," said Bill Ingram. "Maybe it was too pleasant. I am afraid the boys haven't been thinking much about football. They have had a good time and now we've got to get the idea into their heads that there is a game ahead."

"Navy Bill" Ingram is worrying a bit about the game. This may seem a bit incongruous to those in the south who know what a great team the Californians have and what an inexperienced one the Jackets own.

Nevertheless Bill Ingram is worried. He took a look at the Tech players as they filed out to practice.

"Well," he said, "they don't look little."

MUST BE GOOD.

He was told that most of the larger men were reserves.

"Well," he said, "that makes it worse. It means the little guys are faster and above the average or they wouldn't beat out the big men." Coach W. J. Alexander, of the Jackets, was satisfied with the condition of his team. He readily admits that the Bears should win by three or four touchdowns.

The Jackets themselves seem unworried. They have been through a severe season and this—me of Saturday will be no harder than some they have seen.

Quite a crowd of curious came out despite the rain. The Californians were not greatly excited about the rain. It was a pleasant surprise to rain for at least 75 per cent of the boys but they didn't seem to want a return engagement.

RUSTY GILL, the great back; Hank Schaldach, another star back; Lou Castro, the big fullback; Ralph Stone, all-around end and the Biltmore on the California squad were the chief objects of interest.

Both teams worked with forward passes during the afternoon. Tech was stressing one particular pass. The Californians went through a wide assortment of them.

Pittsburgh Team Wins at Pinehurst

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Thomas McGraw, of Pittsburgh, and his son, Richard, turned in an 88 for the low net score of 65 to win that class of the annual fathers and sons golf tournament here today.

Pittsburgh's team, Tom Morrison and his son, Robert G., won second net low score with a 71 from a gross of 84. James Blackburn, of the law faculty of the University of Pittsburgh, and his son, James Jr., were third with a net of 72 from a gross of 93.

John D. Chapman, of Greenwich, Conn., and his son, Richard, Williams College star, won the gross score title with an 82.

George T. Dunlap Jr., of New York, intercollegiate champion, was forced to withdraw when his father was called to New York unexpectedly.

Joe Engel's Basketball Squad To Play Celtics Here in January

LOOKOUT TEAM IS RATED BEST OF DIXIE FIVES

Promoters Plan To Bring Other Pro Quintets to Atlanta.

By Ralph McGill.

Joe Engel's Lookouts—the basketball players—will appear in Atlanta January 14 with the New York Celtics as their opponents, it was learned Thursday.

The game will be of unusual interest to Atlantans. Joe Engel's Lookouts are the former "Tepco" team of Chattanooga with which Bill Redd, well-known basketball player, was so long identified.

The team was about to be disbanded when Joe Engel, owner of the Chattanooga baseball club, took them over. Engel has gone after the basketball situation with his usual zeal. He has strengthened the team until it is easily the strongest professional team the south has ever had.

The Celtics, most famous of all professional teams, are well known to Atlantans. They have played here many times and always draw a great crowd. Joe Lapchick, the tall center who palms the basketball, and other star players are with the Celtics again this year.

The Celtics are touring the country this year because of the lack of professional opposition. Their appearance in Atlanta will be one of several which will be made at the larger cities in the south.

An effort was made to obtain the Atlanta team as opponents for the famous pros but none was available. The promoters of the idea decided that it would be a better show to bring in the south's best team and so Engel's Lookouts were signed.

The Lookouts are stronger than they ever were under the Chattanooga Power Company direction. Some new players have been imported and the team is really a first-class professional outfit.

An effort will be made to have Joe Engel, owner of the team, present in Atlanta for the game. It will be played in the auditorium.

Promoters hope to arrange other games for Atlanta this winter. The Chicago Bears and other pro teams are being contacted.

Badger Court Coach Would Accept Post
MADISON, Wis., Dec. 24.—(UP)—Dr. Walter E. Meadwell, Wisconsin University's basketball coach since 1911, is "not applying" for the recently vacated post of athletic director but he will accept appointment to it, he admitted today.

The "Little Doctor" has been mentioned frequently as a candidate for the directorship since George E. Little resigned during reorganization of the athletic system.

Meadwell said he felt certain he had qualifications which "would help me make a success of the position."

Ingram Likes Our Boys ACCEPTS APOLOGIES FOR RAINY WEATHER Favors Trojans To Win

By Jimmy Jones.

Coach "Navy Bill" Ingram, the nautical part having come from associating at Annapolis, stood in the center of his suite last night at the Baltimore and between dipping into a huge container of candy and munching mouthfuls of fudge that had been sent his California Bears, talked of football and the weather of ours.

"You don't have it often, do you?" queried "Navy Bill," swinging an arm in gesture at the damp window panes and the twinkling lights in the streets below.

Of course, we had to assure Coach Ingram, in order to keep our standing with the C. of C., that we have such frightful weather only in the month of December.

"Navy Bill" nodded and helped himself to another piece of fudge. He continued talking and eating.

Coach Ingram was all slicked up and in a hurry to get to the Christmas party that was being thrown for his boys.

We found the California coach to be a most likeable gentleman—big, bluff and open-faced. There was nothing but frankness about Bill Ingram. And the most surprising thing of all for what we had been told of California coaches, Bill Ingram appeared actually meek.

Asked if he felt sure of winning Saturday's game comfortably, he replied:

NOT SURE.

"We will not. We're not that kind of a football team, besides, I don't know what kind of mudders my boys will make, as they haven't played in the wet much."

Questions and answers revealed that "Navy Bill" Ingram is well pleased with his first year out on the coast. He thinks he has had just a fair season.

He thinks Southern California has a great football team and should win over Tulsa, although he says he made the mistake of saying that while passing through New Orleans.

He believes that Dick Tozer, his big 200-pound tackle, is his best lineman and "Rusty" Gill, a hard runner and blocker, his best back.

And finally, but not least, "Navy Bill" Ingram put in a healthy boost for our modern athletes about whom the Southern conference has just held a whispering campaign to end whispering.

"I don't see why they're trying to make a tough guy out of the football player, when if they would only stop to realize it, they would know that it takes a pretty decent fellow to stay in college and play on the football team."

NOT SO GOOD.
About Navy, his old school, coming out in favor of setting herself some athletes, "Navy Bill" would not comment, although he indicated he didn't like the attitude by shaking his head and adding:

"That kind of statement isn't so good."

Like all who have seen the Trojan star, Bill Ingram thinks Howard Jones has one of the most powerful football teams in history. They do everything well, have no end of natural ability and are splendidly coached, he says.

As for his own team—well, Bill said that they used straight stuff and were really tried to do that well. "Hank" Schaldach, his halfback, is rated next to Gill as a cog in the offense.

BEST LINEMAN.
Not Stone or Meadwell but Tozer, whom we have heard little of, is Bill Ingram's choice for his best all-around lineman. Tozer is a great right tackle, he says.

Personally, Ingram is a most striking individual. He is handsome, a trifle bald, with a nose uncommon among our leading coaches. Coach Alexander, of Tech, hasn't any too much hair on his head.

"Everybody would be bald if they pulled their hair as much as coaches."

GOLFERS STAGE FOOTBALL TILT THIS MORNING

West End Batchelors To Play Married Men on Fairway.

West End golfers will take time out at 9 o'clock this morning on the No. 2 fairway, long enough to settle several months' argument as to whether or not the single boys are better football players than the married men.

A challenge was issued some time ago by the benefactors and it was readily accepted by the bachelors, who are very much in the minority as to quantity.

Those players who represent the bachelors are all comers, Gene Cook, Jack Lively, Cannon, Larry Caudill, Alva Cochran, M. M. Anderson, Skipper Burns, Pete Dean, J. W. Sluiter, Leroy Webb and Dr. N. W. Baird.

The bachelors will include Tommy and Pete Barnes, Johnny Adamson, Bruce Morgan, A. R. Phillips, John Smith, J. I. Cook Jr., J. B. McConnell, John O'Neal Jr., Charles Livesey and John Womack.

Due to the limited number of players on both sides, play will probably not last the regular 60 minutes.

There are no substitutes to keep 11 men in the lineup and the first team to weaken will likely end the contest and argument.

Football and not golf has been the topic of discussion at the West End Club for the past month and no alibis will be offered after today's play.

Both sides have announced ready and willing to maintain a victory over several touchdowns or rather by several lengths of the longest fairway on the course.

No admission will be charged and the public, those who care for a morning of football, is cordially invited.

WEBER PLANS MAT BOUT HERE

Sun Jennings, the Cherokee Indian, and Milo Steinborn, the German with a big bear hug, will headline an all-star wrestling card January 5 at the city auditorium. It will be a charity match and the proceeds will go to the Atlanta Elks' Welfare Benefit fund.

Members of the Atlanta B. P. O. E. No. 73 are planning to make it one of the best cards in recent months. Certainly, the headline attraction is Steinborn, who has been the champion of the world for a long time.

Charles Lehman, the tough Texan, has been matched against Wes Willie Davis, the big Virginia Poly football lineman, in the semi-main event.

It will be the formal opening of a series of spring and summer matches between Atlanta's increasing wrestling fans and Weber is pleased that such a card has been arranged for the first match of the new year.

Not Stone or Meadwell but Tozer, whom we have heard little of, is Bill Ingram's choice for his best all-around lineman. Tozer is a great right tackle, he says.

Personally, Ingram is a most striking individual. He is handsome, a trifle bald, with a nose uncommon among our leading coaches. Coach Alexander, of Tech, hasn't any too much hair on his head.

Petrolle Favored Over Townsend
NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(UP)—Billy Petrolle is the current favorite to take Billy Townsend in their 10-round bout at the Madison Square Garden next Wednesday night.

Both men have been working out regularly with their trainers in the city. In next week's encounter will mean the possibility of a shot at the world's championship against Brand.

Petrolle expects to weigh in at about 140, about five pounds lighter than Townsend.

Storey Suggests Kick-Off Changes
NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(UP)—Edward J. Storey, president of the new State Health and Physical Education Association, suggested wide changes in kick-off rules for the "dirty play" in a letter today to E. K. Hall, chairman of the football rules committee.

Believing the "present situation" in preparatory school football "very precarious" because two-thirds of the deaths in the game this fall came to school and high school boys, Storey placed the reasons for these deaths under five heads and called for radical remedies.

Whiskered Lads Bar Hair Pulling

CHICAGO, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The Taylor Frank Girls of Chicago can't pull the braided locks of the House of David Boys any more and get away with it.

Before the long-haired, be-whiskered boys from Benton Harbor, Mich., renewed their basketball war with the girls this season they complained that the girls had been getting too much of a kick out of yanking their hair. So the leaders of the two teams met again tomorrow night.

AMES WAS COOL GRIDIRON PLAYER
CHICAGO, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Known to L. Ames Sr., finally broke under a long nervous strain last night and died of a heart attack.

Ames was a close margin of a 6-0 count. Today Clark University will seek a revenge and one of the hardest fought battles ever played by college teams is predicted.

Clark University, with the better reserve material, will enter the game a slight favorite. The Atlantans throughout a grueling season amassed 131 points against the opposition.

They scored the greatest triple threat back in colored football in Baker, a halfback. He is a great field goal kicker. In the Thanksgiving Day game he booted one through the goal posts from the 47-yard line to beat Morris Brown University in the closing 22 seconds of play.

From a defensive angle South Carolina State College has proven stronger than the locals. Throughout the season they scored 90 points against 6 for the opposition.

Advance ticket sale indicates that a crowd estimated at 10,000 will witness the battle for the supremacy of the southeastern states. Half the grandstand has been reserved for white patrons.

Georgia Tech and the University of Clark University have been invited to attend the game.

The weird cheering of the student body of both schools and the singing of songs and girls is a feature within itself. Other outstanding features that go to make colored games so popular will also be heard. And the best of all the proceeds will go to aid the unfortunate.

GRID TEMPEST BLOWING AGAIN
NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The recent excitement over the football situation at Columbia University, which reached a fever pitch a week ago with the publication of a supposed report by the Nacoms, a Columbia secret society, which was later branded as a "fabrication," has been stirred up again.

The World-Telegram, which printed the original report, published yesterday the results of an investigation which the newspaper conducted to find out how much, if any, truth there might be in the charges that were tossed back and forth and finally denied.

Getting most of its information from the football players themselves after university authorities had refused to cooperate, the paper said it had learned that many football players received scholarships, some of which apparently were not entirely dependent upon scholastic standing, that the university athletic association furnished board and lodging for the players during the football season and that at least one football star had played baseball on a professional team without receiving direct payment.

Investigation of other charges listed in the repudiated Nacom report revealed no evidence to support them.

Durva Is Winner Of Slidell Purse
NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The Lone Star stable's filly, Durva, turned in a good effort on a muddy track to win the Slidell purse, a six-furlong sprint that topped the card at Jefferson Park New Orleans today.

Durva paid her backers $10.20 for $2 and ran the distance in 1:10 3-5, good time under track conditions. My Sweets was second and Stop Gap third.

My Sweets had the early foot and held a lead of three lengths as the field left the back stretch. But Durva closed with a rush and went into the lead to win by a length and a half as My Sweets faltered. Stop Gap was a victim of the Durva and on the finish.

The daily double on Adrian and Tommy paid $31 for $2. Jockey J. Noel scored a triple during the day. He had the mount on Durva and on Adrian in the second race and Drydock in the seventh.

Dempsey previously asked a jury trial which was scheduled for today, but pleaded guilty upon his court appearance.

CLARK BATTLES CAROLINA TEAM IN CHARITY TILT

Colored Elevens To Clash This Afternoon at Spiller Field.

Clark University, pride of Atlanta among colored schools, will meet a strong and formidable South Carolina State College eleven at 1 o'clock this afternoon at Spiller field for the sake of charity and other needed relief organizations among the race.

All the proceeds from the game will be turned over to a local committee composed of five leading colored citizens. Only the cost of the game will be taken out.

The teams involved are the pick among southern colored colleges and are the champions of their respective sections. The winner of this game will become undisputed champion of the southeastern states.

Extensive preparations have put both teams in excellent condition and they are primed to the last notch. A bitter rivalry exists between the two schools. Last year the invaders defeated Clark by a close margin of a 6-0 count. Today Clark University will seek a revenge and one of the hardest fought battles ever played by college teams is predicted.

THE SPORTLIGHT

By Way of Christmas. To low and high, to high and low, As time's fleet moments whiz, To those who come and those who go, Here's all the luck there is, And if that brings no winning score, Here's wishing you a trifle more.

How would you like to reach into your stocking and find a golf ball that couldn't be lost, a set of golf clubs that wouldn't slice or hook, and four great alibi none of your pals had ever thought of?

In observance of a long standing custom, Mr. Rice is hereby granted Christmas off, and an unnamed corporal fires the piece. Hence Mr. Rice can disclaim all the "ain'ts" and "had wents" and shrug a lofty and disinterested shoulder at the deluge of split infinitives. In the lexicon (long since forgotten) the stock brokers down on Wall Street, "this information is from sources Mr. Rice believes reliable but it is not guaranteed."

Willis Ward, a Michigan freshman, quite outdoes the best in modern fiction. He is the best football prospect in years. As a junior in high school he cleared six feet four and a half inches in a high jump and last year as a senior he astounded a packed gymnasium in Detroit by skimming over the bar at six feet six and a fraction.

And that, boys and girls, strongly suggests of the wild and untamed herbivorous mammals of Australia. (The kangaroo to you, Mr. Rice.)

Ward is one of the unlisted prospects for the Olympic games and may be a trouble for the better known high jumpers.

Another one of the unknowns today who may rank well up with the headlines in 1932 is a slim halfback on the Stanford campus who will be officially introduced next fall in the person of Robert Maentz.

Maentz scales only 145 pounds, which is practically a flyweight figure as a quarterback and considered almost too frail and fragile for the serious play of full-grown men.

Maentz, however, has the happy faculty of skipping through unseen holes and then bidding adieu to the secondary defense. He breaks into top speed as a quarterback and normally fast ball carrier and is a throwback to the old-fashioned idea of helping shake one's own self loose instead of placing all the boxes on the line. Maentz was on the freshman team in 1931 and will be a varsity candidate for the first time in 1932.

Maentz (Robert)—watch for him next fall.

Asked the most difficult part of winning this year's British open championship, Tommy Armour unhesitatingly replied, "the double and ever present spectre of $100,000 in cash and the fulfillment of a life-time ambition."

Either of these, taken individually, might be construed as something monumental in the way of placing all the boxes on the line, considering that the average golfer considers

The Children Come Home

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN.

LAST INSTALLMENT.

"The position pays two thousand a year," she went on. "I can live on that very comfortably, in some flat near the church, with Maggie, and if you children can retrench a trifle it may not be necessary for you to change your plans. The big question is the house. It's the worst possible time to sell. We might be able to rent it till business conditions are better."

"Good God," Jim muttered. "And you'd live in a flat and scrape and scrimp—" He could not go on. June hurriedly spoke for him.

"Mother," she said, "I don't suppose you know it, but this house means as much to Jim and me as it does to you. We've always loved it. We've always thought of it as the place we were coming back to after our tryst. Why, even when I'm married I expect to make long visits here and send the children here."

"And you wouldn't have to send 'em far at that," Jim interpolated with a wan grin.

"We've had our tryst in New York," June went on, ignoring him, "and so far as I'm concerned I don't think much of it. Would it be possible, if Jim and I came home and lived here and got jobs, would it be possible—to keep the place?"

Faith still kept her eyes from her children's faces and her voice steady.

"I think we could," she said in a low tone. "Yes, I'm quite sure we could."

"Is there any hope, do you think, of getting jobs here?"

Jim stared at his sister. This was a new June. Their mother continued to look at the blazing logs.

"Mr. Fiske has often told me he would take Jim into the bank any time he wanted to start," she said.

"And, as a member of the board, I happen to know the Memorial hospital needs an office assistant. I could get that place for you, June, if you like. It pays $25 a week. But don't get hastily. Think things over. I don't want you children to do anything you would regret later on."

"I don't need to do any more thinking," June muttered. "I've thought more in the last ten minutes than I've ever thought in my life before. Are you on, Jim?"

"I'm on," said Jim, almost inaudibly.

"Then we'll go to New York with the bunch tomorrow and get rid of the studio and beat it back to home and mother," June decided. "We can start on our new jobs the first of January, if they'll take us."

She saw her mother's head go down and shaking hands go up to her face.

On Christmas morning, one year later, Mr. Clinton Fiske, president of the Fiske bank, walked out of St. Matthew's church with his organist, daughter-in-law and her two sons, and to Bob Drake, who was walking with them, and fell into step with Faith.

"You ought to be proud of that boy," he said, looking admiringly at young Jim's erect back. "If ever a lad's made good, he has. I don't mind telling you now, after watching him for a year, that I wasn't at all sure he would, in the beginning."

"I know that," Mrs. Leonard smiled. "It's why I was so grateful to you for giving him a chance just because I asked it. That was friendship," she added warmly.

"June's all right, too," Fiske went on. "But it's lucky for her she's going to be married to Drake's son. Roberts tells me she's good, but not a wonder in her work. She isn't cut out for the role of ideal office assistant. As the wife of our leading young citizen she'll make a big splash. By the way," he lowered his voice, "I've always wondered just how you got those youngsters back home after such a short fling. I thought they'd be fixtures in New York for a year or two, at least."

"It was simple enough," she said. "I didn't deceive them about anything, but I didn't tell them everything. I let them know I was taking the job of organist, but I didn't confess that I did it to fill my time and because I loved the work. I confessed that my income was badly cut down, but I didn't tell them my securities were safe and that the lowered income was only a question of a year or two. I talked about renting or selling the house, but I didn't say I had to do it. And it would have been criminal extravagance for me to go on living in it all alone."

"In short, you pulled the wool over their eyes," the banker laughed. "Have you confessed to them yet?"

"No, I haven't," Mrs. Leonard admitted, and added briskly, "and I'm not going to—at least until they're both married and settled down. They are perfectly happy here, and we're an ideally devoted family, but they'd never forgive me if they learned the facts now. They've had such a grand time keeping the wolf from the door and bread in my mouth, the darlings! By the way, can't you come home to dinner with us? The Seymour sisters are getting here on the one-thirty train for a 2 o'clock Christmas dinner and to spend the afternoon. They've got to be back in New York by midnight. They're unusual people. They'll interest you."

"Sorry. My sister and her kids are with me for Christmas," Mr. Fiske raised his gray eyebrows. "But the Seymour sisters? Aren't they the famous dancers? And aren't they pretty gay?"

Mrs. Leonard laughed. "They're the most work-absorbed and serious girls we know," she testified, "and I'm under a lasting obligation to one of them. I'll tell you all about that, some time!"

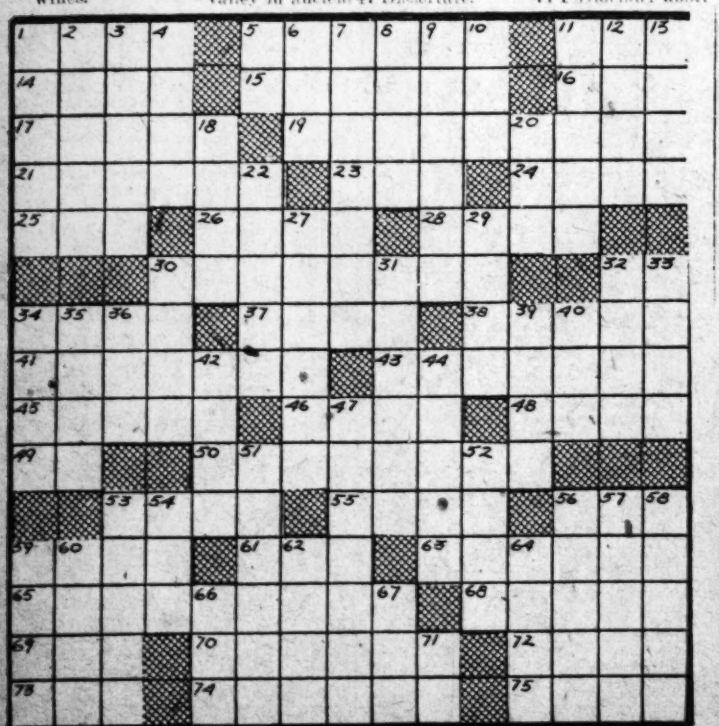

THE END.

SPRIT OF CHRISTMAS CHEER RULES SOCIAL GATHERINGS

Miss Frazier Weds Lieut. F. H. Lynch At Ft. McPherson

Cordial interest of fashionable society in Georgia and Tennessee as well as in service circles in the marriage of Miss Jimmie Frazier, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Frazier, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Francis Holly Lynch, lieutenant of infantry, United States army, which was quietly solemnized last evening at 8 o'clock at the post chapel at Fort McPherson. The post chaplain, Major Clifford P. Fitcher, performed the impressive ceremony in the presence of relatives and close friends.

The chapel was adorned with Christmas greenery and the white covered altar was banked with the green of palms and ferns interspersed with brass vases holding holly. The altar was flanked by cathedral candelabra supporting white tapers and the chancel-rail and choir loft were massed with the green of palms and holly. Ascending from the top of the arched windows were garlands of southern pine, caught with holly. Placed in front of the stained glass panes were white tapers in cathedral candelabra.

The bride was given in marriage by her sister, Miss Katherine Frazier, who acted as the maid of honor and only attendant. They were met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Wesley Jorgensen, of New York city. The bride was a lovely figure in her wedding gown of cell blue satin fashioned long with a tight bodice and a low neckline. She wore blue moire slippers and her flowers were an exquisite bouquet of valley lilies.

Following a brief wedding trip Lieutenant Lynch and his bride will make their home at his attractive apartment at the Fort McPherson Officers' Club, where they will be charming additions to the younger set of the garrison. Mrs. Lynch, a popular member of the fashionable circles of Tennessee, attended school in Chattanooga and was one of the most admired members of the social contingent. Lieutenant Lynch is the son of Mrs. B. A. Lynch and the late Mr. Lynch, of Washington, D. C. His brothers are Lieutenant Charles Lynch, U. S. A., now stationed in the Philippines, and Lieutenant Herbert A. Lynch, U. S. A., who is detailed for duty in Hawaii. The bridegroom is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point in the class of 1920. Since his graduation he has had interesting tours of duty in the east and is now stationed at Fort McPherson, where he is one of the most valued of the younger officers of the twenty-second infantry.

To far Bethlehem.

Madonna-like Mrs. Harry Laurence Stearns Jr. holds her infant son, Harry Laurence Stearns III, tenderly in her arms, while her lovely three-year-old daughter, Mary Stearns, listens with rapture to the ever-beautiful story she is telling of the birth of the Christ Child in the manger, and the Three Wise Men who followed the brilliant star which led them to Bethlehem nearly 2,000 years ago. The verse was selected from the poem entitled "The Story of a Song," by Will Dromgoole, talented member of the staff of the Nashville Banner. Cleo Mansfield, gifted staff artist of The Constitution, sketched the exquisite setting for the charming photograph, which was made by Misses A. C. and L. W. Mead, Atlanta photographers.

Miss Jane Sharp Makes Debut At Brilliant Tea-Dance at Club

The holiday spirit and Christmas gaiety pervaded the brilliant tea-dance at which Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sharp formally presented to society their debutante daughter, Miss Jane Sharp, yesterday afternoon at the Piedmont Driving Club, assembling a group of fashionable members of the younger contingent. Christmas decorations added to the festive atmosphere, two small Christmas trees being placed at either side of the entrance and evergreens being placed in the corners of the room. Red-shaded lights simulating roses studded at intervals the garlands of smilax which were festooned between the columns, and entwined the pillars.

Clusters of poinsettias were placed at the top of each column and were used in vases in the loggia where punch was served. Handsome flat and Italian cutwork cloths covered the buffet tables, which were centered by silver vases holding red supreme roses and silver candelabra held red tapers. The mammoth Christmas tree, bedecked with shining ornaments, which was placed in front of the fireplace, formed an appropriate background for the bank of beautiful flowers sent this popular debutante, which were directly behind the receiving line. Miss Sharp was gowning in ivory-colored charmeuse satin with a moulted skirt lined with the knees, where the skirt billowed into graceful fullness. Gold sequins elaborately embroidered the gown, making it most becoming

Miss Eunice Neal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David G. Neal, became the bride of Benjamin R. Padgett Jr. at a beautiful and impressive ceremony taking place at the Druid Hills Baptist church yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony before an assemblage of relatives and friends.

The interior of the church was effectively decorated for the occasion. The choir loft was banked with palms, centered by a pedestal basket of cut flowers. Standing in relief among the palms and on either side were six cathedral candelabra holding white burning tapers.

Before and during the ceremony an appropriate program of nuptial music was rendered by Arthur Neal and Miss Emily Harrell, who played selections on the piano and violin. Mrs. Arthur Neal sang "I Love You Truly" and "Beulah."

Entering first were the ushers, A. R. and Eugene Padgett, twin brothers of the bridegroom; O. G. Chamberlain and James Cagle. Mrs. James Reid Cagle, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. She entered alone wearing a close-fitting model of brown tulle crepe fashioned with a sash and short puffed sleeves. Her hat was of brown boucle straw and other accessories matched. She carried a shower bouquet of Tulsipar roses, tied with cream-colored ribbon. Miss Nettie Neal, of Buffalo, N. Her shoulder bouquet was of pink roses and valley lilies. Elmer Alford, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Miss Mildred Johnson, only sister of the bridegroom, played the wedding march from "Lohengrin," and during the ceremony Miss Johnson played "I Love You Truly."

The bride and bridegroom entered the living room together where they repeated their marriage vows before an improvised altar of ferns. A color scheme of pink and white was used throughout the decorations.

The bride wore a street costume of black crepe. Her blouse was of egg-shell lace and her accessories were of black. Her hat was a close-fitting model of black straw. Mr. and Mrs. Rowan left directly after the ceremony for a motor trip to Florida.

Christmas Cards Have Become a Part of the Pageant of the Festive Season

By BESSIE STAFFORD.

Christmas cards, those cheery little messengers conveying greetings from one friend to another, have become a part of the pageant of Christmas. Pictured above are a few chosen by Atlantans to express their personal greetings. Silhouetted against the glistening background are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Garrard and baby Jo. Beth Apperson Garrard, of Birmingham, Ala. Mr. Garrard extends his arms in a tender gesture toward his little daughter, who is seated upon her mother's lap. The harp serves to recall the melody which emanates from the instrument played by Mrs. Garrard, who will be pleasantly recalled as the former Miss Jo Beth Apperson, of Atlanta.

All the way from Melbourne, Australia, the British possessions in the Pacific, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ware wave their greetings to the United States. The two little figures standing on the shore at the left of the card typify the former Miss Runa Erwin, and her husband, who have resided in Australia ever since their marriage last March. Incidentally, this is their first greeting of any sort bearing their married name, and it was designed by versatile Mrs. Ware.

When Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Winship Jr. visited the orient they bought some exquisite hand-painted scenes of Tokyo. The reproduction of the snow-laden Japanese pagoda depicts the character of these rare cards, and the floating colors of the pagoda are in black, red and green.

Pine Acres, the colonial residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Gately on Pace's Ferry road, graces their greeting card. The house sits back from the road in a cluster of stately pine trees and is entirely hidden from view.

The picture was made during a snow storm of last winter, and it is extremely suitable for this festive occasion.

"With Christmas greetings and best wishes for a year filled with good health and happiness," were in the scheme of Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn Harris' Yuletide sentiments. Bre's Rabbit is on the eve of entering the cabin door which stands ajar and is carrying a pack of toys on his back, but his face is turned longingly toward the cotton patch. Bre's Rabbit and the cotton patch are significant of the tales written by Joel Chandler Harris, illustrious father of Mr. Harris, who always selects an animal made famous in "Uncle Remus" to grace his yearly greeting cards.

Those erstwhile Atlantans, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ferguson, believe in "putting on the dog." They reside in Omaha, Neb., and as the former Miss Caroline Fair has always been a dog fancier, a cunning Scotch terrier stands on a dog background bordered with green and red bands, and barks his "Merry Christmas."

"Come to see us," said Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Northern, who live at Sylacauga, Ala., their abode being a little brown-shingled bungalow christened the "Cotton Patch." They even furnish a road map to illustrate how easy it is to find the way there from Atlanta, and a huge arrow points in the direction of Sylacauga.

The age-old story of the Three Wise Men following the star was chosen by Mrs. Samuel M. Inman to express her greetings. The silver star twinkles in a blue background and the looking Bethlehem.

Cost One Cent.
Atlanta's most unique card, printed on a postcard, was credited to Kenneth Sepp, publicity director for Georgia Power Company, and a former member of The Constitution's editorial staff, which bears the following original verse:

With business off and salaries cut
And every blame thing in a rut,
Things are not like the days of old—
Now, fancy cards cost too much gold.

On our back steps, collectors camp,
But just a penny buys a postage stamp
To send a message as of yore,
And with you one big Christmas more!

The richly paneled door of Marcan Hall, the Valley road mansion of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Candler Dobbs Jr., opens to reveal the figures of their sons, Candler Jr. and Warren, standing in the baronial hall beside a Christmas tree. The card is in sepia tones, and reflects the color of the handsome woodwork in Marcan Hall, and "Hope you have heaps of fun this Christmas" is engraved beneath.

Miss May Haverly's card displays children singing carols beneath a window, through which shines the light of a candle, with the same old "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year" greeting that never goes out of style.

Miss Rosalie Howell's parchment card is adorned with Folly, her summer home at Highlands, N. C., which follows the Japanese style of architecture. "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year" are done in Japanese lettering to correspond with the lines of the house.

A snow scene, suggestive of the Christmas season, with a snow-covered house in the distance and cheery lights in the windows, a lot of smoke issuing from the chimney, hand-painted in crimson poinsettia and holly boughs, is the festive card of Dr. and Mrs. Frank M. Atkins.

An attractive picture of starry-eyed and smiling one-year-old Henry W. Grady IV adorns the greeting card sent to their friends by Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Grady and Mr. and Mrs.

Henry W. Grady Jr. Lettered in white on red cardboard, with fleecy flakes of snow falling on the inscription is the original verse:

"Both my grandpa and my dad,
Say Christmas cards are just a fad,
But I send you my picture with the rest
In hope that you will like it best."

Dressed in a colorful Dutch costume, with a saucy white cap perched on her golden tresses, and her arms akimbo on her hips, lovely little Hayden Fleming glances roughly over her shoulder to wish her friends "Best wishes for Christmas." This card, like that sent by Henry Grady IV, will be treasured by the recipients long after these charming children grow from childhood to adults.

Select Mayfair.
Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Atkinson and Mr. and Mrs. Jackson P. Dick featured Mayfair, their Habersham Way mansion, in their choice of a Merry Christmas medium.

Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey Wagar's personally autographed card displays four brilliant red reindeer prancing in a fantastic manner across a yellow background. These reindeer are none other than Desher, Dancer, Prancer or Vixen, or it might be Comet, or Cupid, or Donner, or Blitzen who have for hundreds of years drawn the sleigh of Santa Claus across the house tops in every land.

Esmond Brady penned his name and "Christmas Greetings" in a stylish manner in red ink on a white card bordered in red. Dr. and Mrs. Bates Block reproduced the dormer window of their Peachtree road residence on their card. The window is bedecked with gay flowers, and a window box is filled with evergreens.

Miss Frances Weinman fancied an attractive card showing boys and girls purchasing teddy bears, horses, dolls, drums and elephants in a toyshop. The figures and toys are in a brilliant shade of red, as is "May Christmas Bring You Happiness."

A black candlestick resting against a pale gray background, the glow of the candle being reflected on a deeper gray circle, are introduced in the Christmas card selected by Mr. and Mrs. William Haines Mills, who expressed their sentiments with "The Season's Greetings."

Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Scott selected the imposing cathedral of Milan, Italy, to decorate their card, the church being etched in sepia tones on white cardboard. The corner of Mrs. Floyd McRae's garden on Peachtree road decorates her card, the wisteria vines being literally covered with gorgeous blossoms. A scene of Ye Olde Merrie Christmas observed in Revolutionary days adorns the card received from Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Lakin, of Emporia, Kan.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregg's Card.
"Wishing you a walloping Merry Christmas" is conveyed by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gregg in an original drawing by Mr. Gregg. It features S. Claus, dressed in a flaming red suit, hitting the funeral-clad D. Preston in the face. Old D. Preston is on the brink of a precipice, and here's hoping Lewis Gregg's Santa Claus succeeds in pushing him into the chasm.

Quite personal was the clever greeting of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Stanton Jr. and the card reflected the originality and artistic talent of which Mr. Stanton is famed. A sketch of this terrestrial sphere on which we live, was topped with the abode of old St. Nick, who established telephone connection with Mr. Stanton down in Atlanta to tell him that he had forgotten to deliver "88,462.08 present to Mr. and Mrs. Blank." Frank replies: "Well, rush Mr. and Mrs. Blank a radio message right now saying 'Merry Christmas from Dorothy, Little Dot and Me.'"

Kenny-Abernathy Wedding Rites Solemnized at West End Church

Centering the interest of a host of friends throughout the south, was the wedding of Miss Estelle Kenny and George Thomas Abernathy, of Newport News, Va., which was solemnized last evening at 6:30 o'clock at Gordon Street Presbyterian church. The date also marked the anniversary of the wedding of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin Kenny. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Shields, pastor of the church.

The altar was beautifully decorated with palms and foliage plants, interspersed with white chrysanthemums arranged in white wicker floor baskets, and seven-branched candelabra holding white candles. Flanking each side of the altar were tall floor standards filled with white chrysanthemums. A program of organ music was rendered by Miss Virginia Cunningham of New York city. The selections included "Liberation," by Liszt; "The Sunshine of Your Smile," "Festal Prelude in C," Schubert's "Serenade," Venetian Love Song, by Nivin.

Before the bride's party entered Mrs. Edward Danforth sang "The Day of Golden Promise," by Bernard Hammen.

The bride's party was led by the ushers, John H. Kenny and Paul C. Kenny, brothers of the bride, and followed by the groomsmen, Dr. C. Brevard Falls, William C. Linn, R. E. Williams, both of Newport News, Va., and Robert M. Kenny Jr., another brother of the bride. J. Sharp Queener of Old Hickory, Tenn., acted as best man for Mr. Abernathy.

Bridal Personnel.
The bridesmaids included Miss Dorothy Collier, Mrs. C. B. Falls, Mrs. John Horne and Mrs. O. E. Cook. They wore gold tulle dresses made on bias lines, the skirts formed of many ruffles, which graduated at the back to a bustle effect. A neckline outlined in bias bands was caught at the side with a brown velvet bow. The attendants wore slippers and gloves to match their gowns and they carried arm bouquets of Talsman roses combined with bronze and lavender sweet peas and snapdragons.

Mrs. J. Sharp Queener, of Old Hickory, Tenn., only sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore gold satin draped to the side and caught with roses made of the same material. Her shower bouquet was of Talsman roses, bronze and lavender sweet peas and snapdragons, tied with ribbon to match.

Miss Jean Kenny, niece of the bride, acted as flower girl, wearing an old-fashioned dress of tea-rose crepe, featuring puffed sleeves, ruffled neck and skirt. She preceded the bride and carried a nosegay of pastel flowers.

Bride Enters.
The bride was given in marriage by her father, Robert Martin Kenny. She was gowned in eggshell satin; the gown having been worn by her sister, Mrs. J. Sharp Queener, at her wedding. The bodice was Venice lace joined at the neck with a pointed yoke of satin. The skirt was fitted to the knees and the train was formed of tiers falling from the waistline at the back. Her eggshell tulle veil was caught to her hair with a band of pearls and orange blossoms. A bouquet of Parma violets and valley lilies completed the bridal costume.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Kenny entertained at an informal reception at their home in West End Park for the wedding party, out-of-town friends, and relatives. Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Kenny in receiving were Mrs. J. B. Abernathy, of Pulaski, Tenn., mother of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. John Kenny, brother and sister of the bride. Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. George W. Brooks III, Mrs. Ralph Allison, Mrs. Lane Hayes, Mrs. Eugene Thompson, Mrs. Duncan Peck, Miss Ruth O'Steen, Misses Sue Mable and Edith Mable.

Mrs. Kenny received the guests wearing a gown of purple velvet beaded in rhinestones and pearls. Her flowers were a shoulder bouquet of yellow roses and valley lilies.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth. Gracing the center was an embossed three-tier bride's cake resting on a mound of roses. The guests were presented with white satin rice bags monogrammed in gold with the bride's initials.

Mr. and Mrs. Abernathy left for a wedding journey to Florida and will return after January 10 to Newport News, Va., to make their home at 225 Chesapeake avenue. Mrs. Abernathy traveled in a suit of green box-wool, wool trimmed in brown velvet cat fur. Her hair was of brown grosgrain ribbon offset with green, and brown accessories completed the costume.

Christmas Party.
Mr. and Mrs. John Ogden will keep open house at their home on Pace's Ferry road Christmas afternoon, inviting 150 of their friends to call. Christmas decorations will add to the air of gaiety and the colors of red and green will predominate. The hosts will be assisted in entertaining by their guest, Mrs. Austin Haskell, of Seattle, Wash. Mrs. B. J. Gardner and Mrs. Sam Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. Ogden will entertain again New Year's Eve at dinner at their home. This occasion will also assemble a group of their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamkin To Hold Anniversary.
Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Lamkin will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage Saturday, December 25, at their home on Mercer avenue, in College Park. The calling hours will be from 4 to 10 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamkin were married in Fort Worth, Texas, December 26, 1906. Mrs. Lamkin was formerly Miss Edna Madison, of Fort Worth.

Miss Virginia Morris Becomes Bride of Mr. Stewart, of Macon

The marriage of Miss Katherine Virginia Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roy Morris, to John Frank Stewart, of Macon, Ga., formerly of Thomasville, was quietly solemnized at 8 o'clock last evening at the Druid Hills Baptist church before an assemblage of relatives and close friends with the Rev. Louis Newton, pastor of the church, performing the ceremony. An appropriate program of music was rendered before the service by Mrs. John Feller, organist, and Miss Lucile Bush, violinist. An attractive arrangement of palms, foliage plants and baskets of white chrysanthemums formed a floral background for the service.

The bride's sister, Miss Anne Morris, was her only attendant, and Jesse Oliver Stewart, the bridegroom's father, acted as best man. Miss Anne Morris wore an attractive gown of chiffon in eggshell shade, trimmed with deep cream lace.

The bride's exquisite gown was fashioned entirely of white lace over white satin. Her wedding veil of handsome Spanish lace was held to her hair by sprays of orange blossoms and fell to a train length, the exquisite veil belonging to Mrs. Perry L. Blackshear, who is a lifelong friend of the bride's mother, and was worn by Mrs. Blackshear at her wedding. Complementing the lovely lace costume was a bonnet of valley lilies carried by the bride.

The ceremony was followed by an informal reception given by the Evelyn Jackson School of Music P. T. A. at the home of Mrs. Marion Vaughan and Miss Evelyn Jackson at their home on Penn avenue. Mrs. Morris, the bride's mother, wore a gown of blue crepe combined with lace. Mrs. J. O. Stewart, of Thomasville, Ga., the bridegroom's mother, was attired in turquoise blue crepe. Mrs. Charles Minor Morris, the bride's grandmother, wore a gown of black lace and chiffon. Mrs. Vaughan wore a gown of blue crepe, and Miss Jackson was attired in black velvet. Miss Polly Vaughan assisted her mother and Miss Jackson in entertaining and wore a black chiffon gown.

Mr. Stewart and his bride left in the early evening for a motor trip to Florida, and upon their return in early January, they will make their home in Macon, where the former is connected with the Macon Gas Company. The bride wore for traveling a modish coat suit of brown boucle with a blouse of eggshell satin. Her hat was a small brown felt model, and other accessories carried out the brown shades.

The bride is an accomplished musician, having studied piano with Miss Evelyn Jackson since she was seven years of age. She is a graduate of North Avenue Presbyterian church, where she was prominently identified with all the school's activities. She is a representative of prominent Atlanta families, her paternal grandparents, Mrs. Charles Minor Morris and the late Mr. Morris, being pioneer residents of this city.

Before her marriage, the bride's mother was Miss Katherine Dennis, daughter of Alonzo H. Dennis and the late Mrs. Dennis, who was formerly Miss Olivia McNeil, of Talbotton.

Mr. Stewart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Oliver Stewart, of Thomasville, Ga. He attended the Georgia School of Technology and is a member of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity. Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Henderson, of College Park, announce the birth of a daughter, December 22, who has been given the name of Anne Louise. Mrs. Henderson was, before her marriage, Miss Louise Bolton, of Winterville, Georgia.

Military Contingent Enjoys Christmas Spent in Georgia

BY IDA FRANCES WING.
Christmas in Georgia! Such a joyous time for the military contingent gathered at Fort McPherson from the four corners of the country, united together in the service of Uncle Sam. Christmas, with the simple and charming hospitality of Georgia to the stranger within her gates, for indeed, the military set, so cosmopolitan in its personnel, is a stranger, although a very much welcomed one. Christmas with brick winds blowing, gray clouds scurrying overhead and a spirit of "peace on earth, good will toward men" prevailing throughout the celebration, Christmas and heartthrob gleaming in the windows on the officers' row winking a happy greeting to the twinkling lights opposite in the barracks of the men.

Christmas, and the garrison contingent awakened at dawn to listen to the old best loved carols of "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" and "O Little Town of Bethlehem" being played by the regimental band of the 22d infantry as according to an old army tradition played at the dawn of the day. Christmas, and the clear notes of the bugle calling the soldiers to the bounteous dinners served in the messhalls while the officers with their families headed by Colonel Louis M. Nuttman, the popular and efficient commanding officer of the regiment, visited each mess hall to wish a merry Christmas to members of the command. Christmas, and memories of the welfare work accomplished, of the needy families visited and the cheer given to others as the families of the army group gather around the flower-centered table.

Christmas in the south! Indeed a rather different Christmas from the one spent several seasons ago by Major General Frank Ross McCoy and Mrs. McCoy aboard somewhere at sea returning from Nicaragua after a pleasant tour of duty, where the tropical seas, summer clothes and warm setting belied the thought of Christmas. Different, too, from the semi-tropical backdrop afforded by Porto Rico for the Christmas celebration of General George H. Estes and Mrs. Estes prior to their arrival at the post. Different, too, from the holiday season spent in France by Captain Bayette and Mrs. Bayette last year with their charming little 17-month-old twin daughters, Jessica Idanthea and Bonnie Tokier, who hung up their stockings in Paris, where their father was detailed for duty.

Different, too, from Christmas last season spent by the army debutantes, Miss Norma McNair and Miss Violet Graham, the former celebrating the holiday season at Fort Hoyle, Md., with her parents, Brigadier General William McNair and Mrs. McNair, and the latter observing the festive day in snow-laden Fort Hamilton in New York state.

Different, too, from the gala day of two seasons ago of small Frances Peck, daughter of Lieutenant Marvin W. Peck and Mrs. Peck, who had her Christmas tree on the lawn of his quarters in colorful Hawaii, where poinsettias six feet tall against one's garden wall and warm-scented breezes belie the thought of Christmas.

This year the members of the army set will receive their presents at Fort McPherson, where the living Christmas tree lighted on the parade ground and twinkling out a message of good cheer to the passer-by, the holly wreaths in the windows and the burning candles shining through the window panes proclaim the holiday spirit of the garrison.

For Miss Marks.

Miss Esther Nelkin was hostess at a dance recently at her home in honor of Miss Dora Marks.

Another interesting social event given for Miss Marks was a bridge-luncheon at which Miss Dora Taffel was hostess.

Mrs. C. M. Bolton, of Winterville, Ga., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. B. J. Henderson, in College Park.

Costume Ball Will Be Given New Year's Eve at Army Post

FORT MCPHERSON, Ga., Dec. 24.—Celebrating the victory of the combined fire companies of Fort McPherson and Atlanta over the gods of fire, which led to the destruction of the Officers' Club after burning The Chateau last week, the club members will entertain Thursday, December 31, at a brilliant fire ball at the Officers' Club. Previous plans for a movie ball had been announced, but the recent fire has brought into being the fireman's ball, which will be attended by the officers of the post, their families and guests from Atlanta arrayed as fire refugees in brilliant-hued pajamas, dainty slippers, bath robes and flapping sandals, fireman's suits, spectator frocks, which consisted of coats of one suit, skirts of another, with small regard for color or pattern in the excitement of getting to the fire. The members of the band will wear fireman's uniforms and the club rooms will be decorated with fireman's axes, ladders, water buckets and fire hose. Captain John R. Dinsmore and Mrs. Dinsmore, Captain Benjamin Sells and Mrs. Sells and Lieutenant Francis Stevens and Mrs. Stevens will be the official hosts.

Christmas morning the riders of the garrison will assemble and at 10 o'clock in front of the commanding general's quarters for a ride through the woods of the reservation. Major Francis Fuller is in charge of the ride and the trail will lead along the ridge, topping the high hill and traversing a part of the hunt course before returning to the garrison after an hour and a half's ride. Among those riding will be Major General Frank Ross McCoy, Major Francis Fuller and Mrs. Fuller, Major R. M. Howell, Mrs. John R. Dinsmore, Mrs. Henry W. Robinson, Miss Doris Macklin, Major Walter Macklin, Miss Ruth Peck, Miss Roslyn Pate, Major Ernest Haskins, Major Jay R. Haskins, Captain Frank Child, Lieutenant William Biddle, Lieutenant William Hall, Lieutenant J. M. Charlie and Ben Pate Jr.

Christmas afternoon the Officers' Club will entertain at a tea-dance to be held at the Army Service Club, near the entrance gate at the post, from 4:30 until 6:30 o'clock. Guests from Atlanta, as well as club members, will assemble at the garrison for the dance and the official hostesses, Mrs. John R. Dinsmore, Mrs. B. G. Sells and Mrs. Francis Stevens, will receive the guests.

Youthful actors presented a pageant, "The Gift of Time," at the annual Christmas tree celebration held at the Army Service Club at the post Thursday afternoon. Marion Welsh, as the Spirit of Christmas, read from an old manuscript the meaning of Christmas, relating the beautiful story to a small boy enacted by George Woodward, and to a little girl portrayed by June Jefferson. Small Carolyn Abrams and Bobby Wheeler represented the seconds and minutes of Father Time, who was depicted by Doris Holcomb. His Welsh related the age-old customs which clothe Christmas with such a rich significance and Fay Clawson was the Spirit of Easter.

Jean Meisel appeared as Spring, arrayed in a white robe ornamented with dainty apple blossoms, and Mildred Woodward in her white robe bedecked with sweet peas represented Summer. Mary Dinsmore clad in white garlanded with brilliant hued autumn leaves was graceful as Autumn, and Polly Abraham in white encrusted with powdering of snow portrayed Winter. Sunday school classes from the post Sunday school in long robes and golden crown appeared as the choir of angels. Dressed priests, Romans and slaves were enacted by members of the Sunday school and the members of the primary department were carol singers. In the final number the entire cast of 80 children appeared on the stage to sing the final carol.

Colonel Clyde Abraham and Mrs. Abraham entertained at a Christmas dinner at their quarters at the post

Thursday evening. The table was centered with a miniature Christmas tree, tinted blue and ornamented with silver stars. Covers were placed for Mrs. J. N. Willis, Major H. B. McDermott and Mrs. McDermott and their daughter, Miss Dahlis McDermott; Miss Polly Abraham, H. B. McDermott Jr. and Strathmore McDermott and the hosts.

FREIGHT RATE HIKE DELAYED FOUR DAYS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The railroads of the country will increase freight rates January 4 instead of New Year's Day under an interstate commerce commission emergency order issued today.

The commission granted the carriers special permission to file a blanket tariff applying surcharges on freight bills. It also authorized them to put the increases into effect on five days' notice instead of the usual 30 days.

Immediately after the order came down, representatives of the Association of Railway Executives announced the notices would be filed December 30 to become effective January 4.

The increases range from 6 cents a ton to 2 cents per one hundred pounds, with agricultural products excluded. They are in the form of surcharges and will remain in effect only so long as needed to help carriers unable to earn interest on their bonds over the financial crisis. The extreme limit set by the commission is March 31, 1933.

The money derived from the raises will be collected from eligible carriers by the Railroad Credit Corporation organized in Delaware. This company will then make loans to roads needing assistance. Eventually, however, all money will find its way back to the roads originally collecting it.

The plan excludes railroads now in bankruptcy and those deriving over 50 per cent of their income from other than freight traffic. Some of the well-known roads in the country are not eligible because they are in the hands of the courts. These include the Wabash railway, the Seaboard Air Line and the Ann Arbor railroad.

TUG REACHES PORT AFTER CALL OF SOS

PORT ANGELES, Wash., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Seven hours after she was believed lost in one of the worst storms of the north Pacific coast in many years, the historic tug Roosevelt crept into the shelter of Neah bay, west of here, today.

Her wireless cabin was stove in and flooded which explained her silence after frantic SOS calls last night which sent three Canadian and United States patrol boats speeding to her aid.

Captain Russell Davis said the sea battered in the cabin just as the last message—"For God's sake, hurry"—was flashed. Later it was found she was in no danger.

THREE LIVES LOST WHEN BOATS SINK

WINFIELD, Mo., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Three persons were drowned and two others narrowly escaped a similar fate when a motor boat and a flat boat sank in the Mississippi river here yesterday.

The victims were Molly Quinn, John Quinn 8, and Albert Monroe. A ferryman saw the tragedy and rescued Doris Monroe and Mrs. Mamie Monroe, wife of one of the victims.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Christmas is the only festival of the year that unites the minds and hearts of people of nearly every clime and creed and color, people of every heritage and tradition. The believer and the unbeliever, the Christian and the pagan observe the day, acknowledging the miracle of myth, whichever he accepts. The little Jesus lies in his cradle and the world comes to look at him. Curiosity brings some. Others come to worship. The desire for gold brings some. Others follow the crowd. All come, and coming each is blest.

The generous man becomes lavish. The stingy man becomes generous. The rich man gives until he feels poor. The poor man receives until he feels rich. None is so rich but he feels his poverty of spirit at Christmas. None is so poor but he feels kinship with the little family tarrying in the stable till the child be born. None is so poor but he shares his wealth with those less fortunate. None is so unfortunate but he remembers those less blest. None is so unimaginative but he sees beauty in the story of the Christ-child, whether it be for him true history or pure legend.

It has inspired the poets to sing their sweetest songs, musicians to play their purest melodies, artists to paint their loveliest pictures. It is a simple story instinct with the spirit of giving. It has inspired us all to make some gift. The Christ-child is a gift, miracle or myth.

It is Christmas and bright-eyed children dance around the lighted trees. Solemn-faced grownups reflect the light of the star. Sad hearts sing carols and light hearts dance to merry tunes.

That's why the Christmas festival unites the hearts and minds of all people. It's the season of peace and good will to all men. It's the season of gladness and good cheer. It's the season when hearts are happy and love makes gifts.

Merry Christmas!
CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

Longfellow once stated, "Never give up; 'tis the secret of glory." The Bridge player who finds his pleasure in battling against seemingly insurmountable odds, using as his instrument the pastboard representations of armies, is merely picturing the struggle of life itself. When a player has overcome what at first appeared to be insuperable difficulties and triumphantly achieves his end, he has a right to a measure of satisfaction.

In the hand below, my friend, Dr. I. H. Shelly, of Philadelphia, playing in a Duplicate game at the Wissahickon Bridge Club there, found plenty of obstacles in the way of the achievement of his contract.

North and South vulnerable.
East and West not vulnerable.

RUNTY'S FIRST CHRISTMAS.
BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Runt, the young Possum, didn't hang up his stockings for Christmas. No, sir, he didn't hang up his stockings. To begin with, he didn't have any stockings to hang up. Of course not. The little people of the Green Forest don't wear stockings. Fur-thermore, he didn't know anything about Christmas. He never had heard of it, nor had any of the other little people of the Green Forest. In so far as they thought of it, they thought of it at all, which is doubtful, Christmas was to Runt and his neighbors just another day, like any other day at that season of the year.

Then Runt heard another voice. He knew this voice, too. It was the voice of Farmer Brown's Boy, and it, too, had a different sound, a joyous, happy ring.

"Merry Christmas, Runt!" cried Farmer Brown's Boy. "I've brought you a Christmas dinner."

Of course Runt didn't understand a word he said, but when, after Farmer Brown's Boy and Flip had gone on their way to take Christmas cheer to others in the Green Forest,

Cotton Fabrics Return to Favor In New Weaves for Southern Wear

BY JANE EADS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(P)—Cotton, which hibernated under the lash of rich velvets and sheeny satins this winter is breaking forth in a regular epidemic of stylitis for southern resort wear.

Striped seersucker whose only virtue in days gone by, was its cool quality, is now crisply chic. Grayish-blue and white-striped seersucker is particularly adaptable for beach clothes or shirtmaker frocks.

Rough weaves, after the woolsens of the past season—the new interpretations of ratines and sponges—are featured.

Meshes, lacy or tailored, ribbed or square, fine or coarse, dominate the cotton fabrics, as white dominates the colors.

There are also cotton homespuns, a cross between a mesh and a tweed; terry; broadcloths with woven-in stripes; sheer fabrics with woven-in tucks; organdies, voiles, and gingham in such new prints they are enchanting.

Pique is featured with new smooth wide wales, chevron effects, and wide and narrow wale combination stripes. This is used for a sleeveless coat dress trimmed with insets of the fabric turned the other way.

Red and white broadcloth is employed effectively in a tennis dress worn with a three-quarter-length coat of red eponge.

Fish net mesh makes a particularly form-fitting spectator sports frock, while homespun honey beige mesh is used for a trim suit.

"Twine" is one of the most popular new shades, is a combination of egg-shell and beige.

Accenting the white ensemble are bright spots of red, green, tile or navy. Brown, Burgundy, black or purple also are smart contrasts.

A dashing coat for southern wear is of hollow, cut, cable-cord corduroy, with a drop yoke given that broad, masculine-shouldered effect. It fastens with pearl clips.

As for wool, which still holds an important place in fashion, those lacy knit sweaters offer infinite variety in glorious new shades and enchanting sidery patterns.

Bedford cord, lightweight wool, which resembles a striped fabric, is used for a casual frock for summery climes. Novelty knit Angora in bright colors and corduroy-knitted woolen are two other materials which are adding swank to the winter resorts.

Unwelcome Guest Wins Brief "Stay" in Court

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 24.—(UP)—Henry L. Degener, retired businessman, grew tired of the long visit his cousin, Mrs. Lillian Rath, and her daughter were making, but hints, it seemed, were of no value. Degener even hired a carpenter to nail shutters on the windows of his house and bar the doors, he told Magistrate Porter. But Mrs. Rath got a small boy to pry open the guest chamber.

So the host finally had the cousins arrested and brought before the court. Porter ruled they could stay until January 3, but if they remained longer a $100 fine would be assessed.

DR. ANDRE ACQUITTED IN DEATH OF WIDOW

Reno Jury Clears West Virginia Dentist After Brief Deliberation.

RENO, Nev., Dec. 24.—(P)—Dr. Carl Pierre Andre, young West Virginia dentist, was acquitted today of the murder of his former fiancée, Mrs. Martha Hutchinson, by a jury which deliberated one hour and thirteen minutes.

The verdict was reached after several ballots principally to decide whether Dr. Andre was guilty of involuntary manslaughter. The decision was greeted by cheers from spectators.

Saying "This is the best Christmas present I ever had," Dr. Andre immediately wired news of his acquittal to his mother, who is ill in bed at Fairmont, W. Va.

Mrs. Hutchinson, a 21-year-old widow, was killed the night of September 13 in a fall from Dr. Andre's speeding automobile on the outskirts of Reno. The prosecution charged Dr. Andre either shoved her out of the machine or caused her to fall by reckless driving.

Officer Gives Blood To Save Stranger's Life

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 24.—(P)—Patrolman E. Nuismer gave his own blood as a Christmas present today to a man he had never seen. At roll call last night police were told that John C. Cody, 45, Lexington, Tenn., a victim of a kidney infection was in need of blood and the professional blood donors declined to respond because of the nearness of Christmas.

Nuismer went to the Baptist hospital early today. A transfusion was made.

As a result, Cody was still alive today and doctors were hopeful he will recover.

19 PERSONS HURT IN AUTO WRECKS

ANDERSON, S. C., Dec. 24.—(AP) Nineteen persons were injured, six seriously, in two head-on automobile collisions here late today.

Eleven were injured in the first accident and eight in the second.

Mrs. Audrie Fisher, the most seriously hurt, had her nose torn from her face in the second accident and suffered internal injuries.

Others seriously hurt in this accident, all residents of this section, were:

Clyde Fisher, driver of one of the cars, broken jaw and severe lacerations; Thelma Fisher, face cut and leg broken; Hazel Cooley, lacerations and three fractured ribs, and Andree Cooley, face cut and arm broken.

Mrs. Cora Sushie, of Shelby, N. C., had both legs broken and suffered other injuries in the first accident. The others injured in the two accidents suffered only cuts and bruises.

COLL WITNESS ADmits LYING

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(AP)—As the state was about to demand today that Vincent Coll and Frank Gierdano be sent to the electric chair for the Harlem "baby killing" last summer, George Brecht, the only witness to identify them as the slayers, admitted to the jury he had lied twice on the witness stand.

He had denied yesterday ever being convicted of a crime and ever being a witness before a trial. He made the denials, he said, to protect his family.

Then he admitted he had been convicted of a jewel theft in St. Louis when he was 15 and had been a witness for the state in the trial of Louis Mandel and Lee Orlando, members of the "Cuckoo gang" of St. Louis, for the slaying of Dr. August H. Sante, St. Louis physician, in 1927.

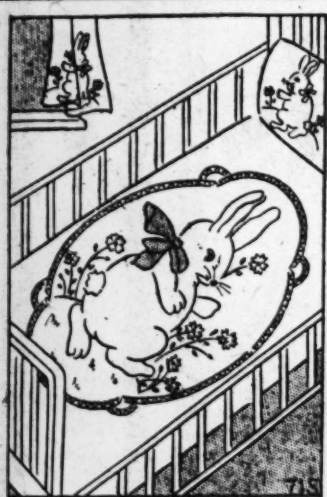

The defense rested today and offered to send the case to the jury without the usual summation of opposing counsel. Judge Corrigan, however, sent the jurors home until Monday, when they probably will get the case for decision.

MISSING SCHOOL GIRL FOUND, MAN IS HELD

DENVER, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Mavis Hollenbeck, high school girl, who disappeared from her home Tuesday, was found by police today in a Denver rooming house.

Mahlon Groff, 21, was arrested and held pending investigation of the case.

Charming Miss Epsie Dallis makes a rather exquisite Christmas picture, her lovely face outlined in a holly wreath. It's Miss Dallis' way of offering Atlantans her best wishes for a Merry Christmas. Miss Dallis is among the belles in the college set of society, and is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dallis. Photo by Kenneth Rogers, staff photographer.

Final rites were held Thursday for W. W. Morgan, 77, retired grain merchant, of 1227 Gordon street, who died Wednesday at a private hospital, with the Rev. M. A. Cooper officiating at Spring Hill chapel. Interment was in West View cemetery.

Mr. Morgan was the organizer and owner of the Morgan Seed and Grain Company on Decatur street. About 15 years ago he was compelled to retire from active business affairs because of ill health. A native of Hall county, he spent his earlier boyhood in Coweta county, removing to Atlanta in the pioneer days of the city.

Missing Baby Returns

Mysteriously to Crib

HOBART, Ind., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Donald Piper, four months old baby who yesterday was reported kidnapped from his home here, was back in his crib today, his return as mysterious as his disappearance. Police refused to discuss the case other than that the child was found in Chicago Heights last night. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Piper, also refused to talk.

U.S. Woman Captured By Chinese Bandits

FOOCHOW, China, Dec. 24.—(AP)

Harriet Halverstadt, of Wellington, Kan., a missionary stationed 50 miles south of here, was captured by bandits late today en route to Foochow.

Miss Halverstadt and 10 Chinese were proceeding aboard a launch in the canal when guerrillas wearing Chinese navy uniforms and carrying pistols fired on the boat. The brigands went aboard and carried off the American woman and her companions into the nearby hills.

The American consul demanded that Chinese officials here undertake her release and a launch bearing soldiers was dispatched to the scene of the kidnapping tonight. The band promised to begin the search Christmas morning.

WOMAN IS ACCUSED IN DONNELLY CASE

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., Dec. 24.—(AP) Sheriff Arthur Rabb said formal charges of aiding in the kidnapping of

TARZAN THE TERRIBLE No. 83

A lucky accident had made known to the ape-man the rapid course of events which had occurred in A-lur while he was struggling to escape from the gryf's pit. Now he was following, in disguise, behind Pan-sat, the high priest's trusted messenger. At last the undercurrent emerged into the courtyard beyond the temple, and shortly after Tarzan did likewise. Here the ape-man went his own way. His priestly disguise disarmed all suspicion. He reached the Forbidden Garden undetected and climbed over its high wall.

The garden was deserted; yet he knew that she he sought must be somewhere. A light flicker from the sleeping apartment of the princess O-lo-a. To his surprise the place was also unguarded. As he stole through several apartments he heard voices raised in anger and excitement. Making his way toward the sound he drew the skin hangings slightly and looked within. Two women were battling with a Ho-don warrior. At the moment the ape-man saw them the warrior had seized one by the hair and bent over her with raised knife.

Casting aside the encumbering headress of the dead priest, the ape-man leaped across the intervening space and, grasping the brute from behind, struck him a single, terrible blow. As the creature fell forward dead, the two women recognized Tarzan simultaneously. "Tell me," he cried, "where is the white woman Ja-don brought here from the temple?" "Mo-sar, the father of this thing," replied O-lo-a, "carried her away but a few moments ago." "Which way?" cried Tarzan. Pan-sat replied: "He must have gone toward his own city on the Dark Lake!"

Tarzan disappeared as quickly as he had come. He searched the outskirts of the city until nearly dawn but discovered no trace of the perfidious Mo-sar or the stolen woman. Often during the night he encountered stray bands of fighters still continuing their battle to thwart the high priest's plan to seize the palace. Several times he joined in the scattered force of Ja-don's men, they had won. As the sun rose, confident that his beloved was not in the temple or palace, Tarzan turned toward Mo-sar's stronghold, Ta-lur, the Dark City.

10 Neediest Families Happy Over 'Opportunities' Gifts

More Than 60 Will Be Assured New Hope as Christmas Dawns; Distribution To Start.

BY ROY ROBERT.

No matter if the clouds of Thursday linger today to shadow Christmas Day—for at least 10 of Atlanta's neediest families it will be a day made cheerful by that brightest human characteristic, charity.

More than 60 members of those families will awake this morning with hope renewed and happiness restored by the gifts of Atlantans to Ten Opportunities, which again this year swept through with $4,083.85 for the relief of destitute people. The fund had reached $4,050 Wednesday night, but later donations swelled the total.

Promptly upon being informed that the Ten Opportunities had "gone over," the Family Welfare Society began plans for their programs of relief which will extend for these families for the entire year. They had selected the families to participate in the fund and will administer the distribution.

The fund this year—the most pessimistic financial period the society has seen in many decades—rivalled other years, and was larger than those of several former years. The greatest help in history brought the greatest response in history.

A special fund was created this year to aid mothers in destitute circumstances in procuring Christmas gifts for their children. Happily they went to 10-cent stores and basement counters to find bargains to gladden the hearts of the little folk. Many could have a blue-eyed doll, because mother knew she liked that better than a dolly with eyes of brown.

There really is a Santa Claus, and any mother of those little children who faced a day of disappointment because no money was there to buy presents. To keep faith with the most beautiful myth the Constitution has known, workers of the Family Welfare Society recreated Santa.

Work to administer the funds already has started and with the aid of the new year, programs for rehabilitating the families will be in full swing. Atlanta responded to the call issued through The Constitution, and the Family Welfare Society is prepared to carry the gospel of "Peace on earth, good will toward men," beyond Christmas and through next year.

DEPRESSION NEAR END, DECLARES ROCKEFELLER

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Dec. 24.

(UP)—The peak of the depression has been reached and there is nothing more to worry about, John D. Rockefeller Sr. declared today in a nationwide Christmas greeting released through United Press.

"I wish all the country a merry Christmas and happy New Year for me and tell them that I am glad and full of gratefulness for my health and this beautiful weather," the 92-year-old oil millionaire said.

He had just entered the Ormond Beach golf course, flooded with dazzling tropical sunshine, for his daily round of golf. He obviously was in fine health and spirit.

"We've reached the peak of the depression," he said. "Things will now get better. I see nothing to worry about. Everything possible is being done to promote prosperity, and I think it is about to arrive."

He passed out two times today—one to R. E. Niven, president of the Florida National bank of Daytona Beach, who expressed the expressed hope that it would "help your bank."

At the Rockefeller winter residence, The Casements, all is being prepared for the annual Rockefeller Christmas party, to be held December 28. Invitations have gone out to more than 200 residents of Ormond Beach and Daytona Beach for the affair Monday evening.

HYDE DISAPPROVES REGULAR PEANUT DATA

Police Committeemen Catch Chicken Thief

Councilman W. M. Rogers, member of the police committee, was cruising about with Alderman J. C. Aldridge in a police radio car Christmas Eve night, listening in on the squad calls being broadcast from time to time. Patrolmen E. P. Roberts and B. R. Hutcherson were in charge of the car.

Shortly after 8 o'clock came the order: "Go to 1060 Oak street. Chicken thieves raiding hen roosts." The car proceeded to the address, and the council members with the patrolmen got out their trusty revolvers, ready for a desperate battle if necessary. Councilman Rogers espied something in the hen house that was a cross between Santa Claus' whiskers and a wild cat. He took aim and fired. A gray fox, with a hen in its jaws, dropped, mortally wounded.

On bills now pending in the house and senate directing the department of agriculture to collect data and publish regular reports on peanut production. While expressing the view that the proposed legislation would be helpful, Mr. Hyde said that he felt the legislation should be deferred until a later date.

Explaining the department's attitude on the bills, Secretary Hyde in his letter to the Georgia senator said: "These bills would authorize this department to collect and publish statistics showing the quantities of raw peanuts, both shelled and unshelled, and of peanut oil in the United States and the possession of warehousemen, crushers, brokers, cleaners, shellers, dealers, co-operative marketing associations, or owners other than original producers. The department would be authorized to collect such statistics in such detail as to kinds, types and grades as may be necessary to provide a comprehensive report of the peanut supply situation. In addition, the department would be authorized to compile reports of peanut stocks, the quantities of peanuts picked or threshed."

"In all probability the data which could be compiled pursuant to the authority proposed to be granted to this department would be helpful in the production and marketing of peanuts. However, the need for retrenchment in the expenditure of public funds is now so urgent that I believe such legislation should be deferred until a later time."

SMITH,
Chief of Associated Press Foreign Service

Mahatma Gandhi's statements wirelessly to the Associated Press from the Steamer Pilna by James A. Mills indicate he has no desire to renew the civil disobedience campaign until all possibilities of peace have been exhausted. But he will find India much disturbed when he arrives there December 28 and again assumes leadership of India's millions clamoring for self-government.

In Bengal, at the extreme west, there is violent opposition to the measures the government has taken to suppress subversive movements. Two women university students are awaiting trial for the assassination of a judge.

In Allahabad a rent strike is in progress and the British authorities have stiffened their attitude toward the national congress, an unofficial body headed by Gandhi and devoted to the independence of India. Gandhi had been expected to confer with members of the congress at Allahabad on December 30, but the government has forbidden meetings of this character.

The failure of the recent second Indian round-table conference in London to reach agreement upon a concrete plan for extending greater freedom to India immediately fired unrest among extremists, and ended the truce which had been in force.

Although Prime Minister MacDonald took the position that the conference had resulted in better understanding between the government and various antagonistic groups in India, and urged a friendly co-operation until committees can visit India next year to make further study of the complex racial and religious problems, Mahatma Gandhi foresees the recurrence of unrest. He declared: "There is going to be hell in India."

Campbell - Milton Children To Return To Schools Jan. 4

Christmas holidays for the school children of Campbell and Milton counties will end on January 4 when they return to school under the Fulton county system's administration. Merger of the three counties, effective January 1, will give Fulton the second largest system in the state, being exceeded only by the Atlanta city schools, according to Jere A. Wells, Fulton superintendent.

Campbell county will turn some 3,500 students into the Fulton system, and Milton county will contribute 1,500, bringing the total for Fulton up to 20,000.

Practically all arrangements have been made for the transfer of the Milton and Campbell counties to the Fulton system January 1. Both of the systems will come into Fulton with their current obligations paid up. Mr. Wells was advised, M. D. Collins, superintendent of Campbell schools, said that his system will enter Fulton with a cash balance of several thousand dollars.

There will be no changes in teaching personnel during the remainder of the term, all Campbell and Milton teachers and principals to be retained for the rest of the school year. Mr. Wells said, Campbell has 60 teachers and 10 principals, as well as 16 school buses.
